Business and Security Sector Reform Pedro Rosa Mendes,2015-09-20 Challenges to security and human rights involving extractive and other industries gave rise to an evolving framework of policy standards and good practice generally known as business and human rights BHR Problems with inefficient and unaccountable security institutions are addressed by security sector reform SSR From an empirical perspective the view from the often mutual operating grounds of BHR and SSR both approaches share many challenges as well as end goals It is thus striking that only on rare occasions are challenges in governance of the security sector addressed upfront as problems of poor resource governance and vice versa This paper describes the grounds where SSR and BHR coincide in principles actors and activities and which synergies can be built on that base It makes the business case for SSR and the SSR case for business The paper assesses how SSR can channel resources and know how from business to address critical challenges related to ownership capacity and sustainability of reform processes Opportunities for bridging BHR and SSR are drawn from a broad range of policy and guidance and by looking at lessons from case studies on Guinea Colombia and Papua New Guinea SSR and BHR should not collide ideally they should cohere A variety of multistakeholder initiatives open new opportunities to bring this about with particular relevance to SSR in extractive environments The overall conclusion supported by practical propositions for implementation is that the existing policies and standards in SSR and BHR already allow and call for a less rigid approach to the challenges addressed in both fields
