

The Shadow Pandemic: Violence Against Women and Girls and COVID-19

Globally,

243 million

women and girls aged 15-49 have been subjected to sexual and/or physical violence perpetrated by an intimate partner in the previous 12 months.

The number is likely to INCREASE as security, health, and money worries heighten tensions and strains are accentuated by cramped and confined living conditions.

Emerging data shows that since the outbreak of COVID-19, violence against women and girls (VAWG), and particularly domestic violence, has INTENSIFIED.

In France, reports of domestic violence have increased by 88% since the lockdown on March 17.

In Cyprus and Singapore helplines have registered an increase in calls of 88% and 55%, respectively.

Increased cases of domestic violence and demand for emergency shelter have also been reported in Canada, Germany, Spain, the United Kingdom and the United States.

In Argentina emergency calls for domestic violence cases have increased by 25% since the lockdown on March 20.

As stay-at-home orders expand to contain the spread of the virus, women with violent partners increasingly find themselves isolated from the people and resources that can help them.

87,000 women were intentionally killed in 2017. The majority of these killings were committed by an intimate partner or family member of the victim.

Violence against women and girls is pervasive but at the same time widely under-reported. Less than 40% of women who experience violence report these crimes or seek help of any sort.

The global cost of violence against women had previously been estimated at approximately

US$1.5 trillion

That figure can only be rising as violence increases now, and continues in the aftermath of the pandemic.

The surge in COVID-19 cases is straining even the most advanced and best-resourced health systems to the breaking point, including those at the front line in violence response.

Domestic violence shelters are reaching capacity, or unable to take new victims due to lockdown and social distancing measures. In other cases, they are being re-purposed to serve as health centers.

National responses to COVID-19 must include:

Services to address violence against women and girls, including increased resources to support shelters, helplines and online counselling. These essential services should be expanded and adopted to the crisis context to ensure survivors' access to support.

A strong message from law enforcement that impunity will not be tolerated. Police and Justice actors must ensure that incidents of VAWG are given high priority and care must be taken to address the manifestations of violence emerging in the context of COVID-19.

Psychosocial support for women and girls affected by the outbreak, gender-based violence survivors, frontline health workers and other frontline social support staff must be prioritized.

The Legal Protection of Women From Violence Rashida Manjoo, Jackie Jones, 2018-03-22 Violence against women remains one of the most pervasive human rights violations in the world today and it permeates every society at every level Such violence is considered a systemic widespread and pervasive human rights violation experienced largely by women because they are women Yet at the international level there is a gap in the legal protection of women from violence There is currently no binding international convention that explicitly prohibits such violence or calls for its elimination or mandates the criminalisation of all forms of violence against women This book critically analyses the treatment of violence against women in the United Nations system and in three regional human rights systems Each chapter explores the advantages and disadvantages coming from the legal instruments the work of the monitoring systems and the resulting findings and jurisprudence The book proposes that the gap needs to be addressed through a new United Nations Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Violence against Women or alternatively an Optional Protocol to the Convention on the Elimination of all Forms of Discrimination against Women A new Convention or Optional Protocol would be part of the transformative agenda that is needed to normatively address the promotion of a life free of violence for women the responsibility of states to act with due diligence in the elimination of all forms of violence against all women and the systemic challenges that are the causes and consequences of such violence

Creating Human Rights Lisa S. Alfredson, 2013-03-26 Selected by Choice magazine as an Outstanding Academic Title Creating Human Rights offers the first systematic study of a pioneering women s refugee movement and its challenge as an international trigger case to more conventional paths toward human rights policy development Lisa S Alfredson argues that such cases which unfold in the context of a specific country and have profound impacts on international human rights efforts have been neglected in research and pose a challenge to recent theorizing on human rights change In the early 1990s Canada witnessed the emergence of the world's first comprehensive refugee policy for women who were seeking protection from female specific forms of violence rape domestic abuse public stoning of adulterers genital mutilation while challenging a gender biased system Close examination of this novel movement Alfredson contends provides crucial insights into why and how states may articulate new human rights that set international precedents Analyzing original empirical data and sociopolitical historical trends the book documents the decisive global impacts of the movement while shedding light on the paradox of noncitizen politics and asylum seekers little recognized political strength Contrary to expectation findings suggest transnational networks and pressures are not required for some forms of change Rather international trigger cases illuminate a range of other key actors and advocacy strategies leading subsequently to a more comprehensive understanding of human rights acceptance In the case of the women's refugee movement the convergence of human rights and noncitizen politics points toward a new dimension for human rights scholarship that in the current age of globalization is becoming critically important
