Uganda Government Cut Off Points 2015 2016:

Africa's Pulse Spring 2016 Punam Chuhan-Pole, 2016-04-12 Africa's Pulse is a biannual publication containing an analysis of the near term macro economic outlook for the region. It also includes a section focusing on a topic that represents a particular development challenge for the continent. It is produced by the Office of the Chief Economist for the Africa Region. This issue is an analysis of issues shaping Africa's economic future. Growth remains stable in Sub-Saharan Africa. Some countries are seeing a slowdown but the region's economic prospects remain broadly favorable. External risks of higher global financial market volatility and lower growth in emerging market economies weigh on the downside. In several Sub-Saharan African countries, large budgetary imbalances are a source of vulnerability to exogenous shocks and underscore the need for rebuilding fiscal buffers in these countries. The Ebola outbreak is exacting a heavy human and economic toll on affected countries and if not rapidly contained, the risk of wider contagion grows. Without a scale up of effective interventions, growth would slow markedly, not only in the core countries, Guinea, Liberia, and Sierra Leone, but also in the sub-region, as transportation, cross-border trade, and supply chains are severely disrupted. In Sub-Saharan Africa, growth in agriculture and services is more effective at reducing poverty than growth in industry. Structural transformation has a role to play in accelerating poverty reduction in Sub-Saharan Africa. Increasing agricultural productivity will be critical to fostering structural transformation. Boosting rural income diversification can facilitate this transformation, as well. Investments in rural public goods and services, for example, education, health, rural roads, electricity, and ICT, including in small towns, will be conducive to lifting productivity in the rural economy. Although Sub-Saharan Africa's pattern of growth has largely bypassed manufacturing, growing the region's manufacturing base, especially by improving its fundamentals, lower transport cost, cheaper and more reliable power, and a more educated labor force, will benefit all sectors.

Higher Education Financing in East and Southern Africa Pundit Pillay, 2010 This nine-country study of higher education financing in Africa includes three East African states, Kenya, Tanzania, and Uganda; five countries in southern Africa, Botswana, Lesotho, Mozambique, Namibia, and South Africa; and an Indian Ocean island state, Mauritius. Higher Education Financing in East and Southern Africa explores trends in financing policies, paying particular attention to the nature and extent of public sector funding of higher education, the growth of private financing, including both household financing and the growth of private higher education institutions, and the changing mix of financing instruments that these countries are developing in response to public sector financial constraints. This unique collection of African country case studies draws attention to the remaining challenges around the financing of higher education in Africa but also identifies good practices, lessons, and common themes.

South Sudans Injustice System Rachel Ibreck, 2019-08-30 An outstanding feat based on in-depth research in a difficult setting, this book uncovers the dysfunctions of law and the bravery of South Sudan's activists struggling for justice. Mark Fathi Massoud, University of California Santa Cruz.

Garcia-Escribano, Delphine Prady, Mauricio Soto, 2019-01-23 The goal of this paper is to estimate the additional annual spending required for meaningful progress on the SDGs in these areas Our estimates refer to additional spending in 2030 relative to a baseline of current spending to GDP in these sectors Toward this end we apply an innovative costing methodology to a sample of 155 countries 49 low income developing countries 72 emerging market economies and 34 advanced economies And we refine the analysis with five country studies Rwanda Benin Vietnam Indonesia and Guatemala

Annual Report Uganda Human Rights Commission, 2016 Uganda International Monetary Fund. African Dept., 2016-06-09 This paper review Uganda s economic performance under the program supported by the Policy Support Instrument Despite sluggish growth in credit to the private sector GDP growth has been supported by the implementation of large public investments Inflation has started to decelerate toward the medium term target allowing for monetary policy easing Adverse weather developments regional and global political and economic uncertainties and post election fiscal pressures may challenge the achievement of short term growth and inflation objectives However provided progress on structural reforms is accelerated the medium term outlook remains positive supported by future oil production increased regional integration and inter regional trade and implementation of significant infrastructure projects Higher Education

Regional Economic Outlook, October 2016, Sub-Saharan Africa International Monetary Fund. African Dept., 2016-10-25 Economic growth in sub Saharan Africa this year is set to drop to its lowest level in more than 20 years reflecting the adverse external environment and a lackluster policy response in many countries However the aggregate picture is one of multispeed growth while most of non resource intensive countries half of the countries in the region continue to perform well as they benefit from lower oil prices an improved business environment and continued strong infrastructure investment most commodity exporters are under severe economic strains This is particularly the case for oil exporters whose near term prospects have worsened significantly in recent months Sub Saharan Africa remains a region of immense economic potential but policy adjustment in the hardest hit countries needs to be enacted promptly to allow for a growth rebound Cameroon International Monetary Fund. African Dept., 2015-12-03 This 2015 Article IV Consultation highlights that Cameroon s economy has shown resilience in the face of the twin shocks of the oil price slump and heightened security threats with the robust growth of 2014 continuing into 2015 Growth is broad based and projected to reach 5.9 percent in 2015 buoyed by increased oil production and the performance of sectors benefiting from the ongoing public investment boom Total revenue is projected to increase in 2015 owing to a strong performance in non oil revenue Growth is projected to moderate to 5.2 percent in 2016 as oil production stabilizes

The Development Dance Haley J. Swedlund, 2017-09-15 In a book full of directly applicable lessons for policymakers Haley J Swedlund explores why foreign aid is delivered in different ways at different times and why various approaches prove to be politically unsustainable She finds that no aid delivery mechanism has yet resolved commitment problems in the donor recipient relationship bargaining compromises break down and have to be renegotiated frustration grows new ways of delivering aid gain traction over existing practices and the dance resumes Swedlund draws on hundreds of interviews with key decision makers representing both donor agencies and recipient governments policy and archival documents in Ghana Rwanda Tanzania and Uganda and an original survey of top level donor officials working across twenty countries in Sub Saharan Africa This wealth of data informs Swedlund's analysis of fads and fashions in the delivery of foreign aid and the interaction between effectiveness and aid delivery The central message of The Development Dance is that if we want to know whether an aid delivery mechanism is likely to be sustained over the long term we need to look at whether it induces credible commitments from both donor agencies and recipient governments over the long term

Out of Time Rahul Rao, 2020 Between 2009 and 2014 an anti homosexuality law circulating in the Ugandan parliament came to be the focus of a global conversation about queer rights The law attracted attention for the draconian nature of its provisions and for the involvement of US evangelical Christian activists who were said to have lobbied for its passage Focusing on the Ugandan case this book seeks to understand the encounters and entanglements across geopolitical divides that produce and contest contemporary queerphobias It investigates the impact and memory of the colonial encounter on the politics of sexuality the politics of religiosity of different Christian denominations and the political economy of contemporary homophobic moral panics In addition Out of Time places the Ugandan experience in conversation with contemporaneous developments in India and Britain three locations that are yoked together by the experience of British imperialism and its afterlives Intervening in a queer theoretical literature on temporality Rahul Rao argues that time and space matter differently in the queer politics of postcolonial countries By employing an intersectional analysis and drawing on a range of sources Rao offers an original interpretation of why queerness mutates to become a metonym for categories such as nationality religiosity race class and caste The book argues that these mutations reveal the deep grammars forged in the violence that founds and reproduces the social institutions in which queer difference struggles to make space for itself

Millennium Development Goals Report for Uganda, 2013 UK Aid to Rwanda Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: International Development Committee, 2012-11-30 The former Secretary of State for International Development

the Rt Hon Andrew Mitchell MP stopped payment of general budget support to Rwanda in July 2012 This was because of concerns about the role of Rwanda in the M23 rebellion in the Democratic Republic of the Congo In September he reinstated half the aid as general budget support and paid the other half directly to the education and agricultural sectors Although there were concerns about the decision making process and whether the decision was correct Mr Mitchell assured the Committee that he carried out consultations within the both Governments of the UK and Rwanda before making his decision The new Secretary of State agreed that the decision making process had been robust As part of this process the Prime Minister set out three conditions for the restoration of aid which the Committee believe to be reasonable and consistent with the aid agreement between the UK and Rwanda Governments These were 1 Rwanda should engage constructively in the peace process 2 it should publicly condemn the M23 Group and 3 there should be continuing ceasefire in the Kivus and practical support to the M23 should end Among the main conclusions are in the light of Rwanda's progress towards the Millennium Development Goal targets and its poverty reduction efforts DFID should continue to provide aid to Rwanda but as the Prime Minister's conditions have not been met general budget support cannot continue The Government of Rwanda should comply with all three of the Prime Minister's conditions before further general budget support is disbursed Until then DFID should consider alternative channels to deliver its aid

Allard,2017-05-09 Growth momentum in sub Saharan Africa remains fragile marking a break from the rapid expansion witnessed since the turn of the millennium 2016 was a difficult year for many countries with regional growth dipping to 1.4 percent the lowest level of growth in more than two decades Most oil exporters were in recession and conditions in other resource intensive countries remained difficult Other nonresource intensive countries however continued to grow robustly A modest recovery in growth of about 2.6 percent is expected in 2017 but this falls short of past trends and is too low to put sub Saharan Africa back on a path of rising living standards While sub Saharan Africa remains a region with tremendous growth potential the deterioration in the overall outlook partly reflects insufficient policy adjustment In that context and to reap this potential strong and sound domestic policy measures are needed to restart the growth engine Whitaker's

Farmer's Weekly,1922 The Moral Economy of Elections in Africa Nic Cheeseman,Gabrielle Lynch,Justin Willis,2021-02-18 Do elections turn people into democratic citizens Elections have long been seen as a way to foster democracy development and security in Africa with many hoping that the secret ballot would transform states Adopting a new approach that focusses on the moral economy of elections Nic Cheeseman Gabrielle Lynch and Justin Willis show how elections are shaped by competing visions of what it means to be a good leader bureaucrat or citizen Using a mixed methods study of elections in Ghana Kenya and Uganda they explore moral claims made by officials politicians civil society international observers and voters themselves This radical new lens reveals that elections are the site of intense moral contestation which helps to explain why there is such vigorous participation in processes that often seem flawed Demonstrating the impact of these debates on six decades of electoral practice they explain why the behaviour of those involved so frequently transgresses national law and international norms as well as the ways in which such transgressions are evaluated and critiqued so that despite the purported significance of vote buying the candidates that spend the most do not always win
