Saviors Strong Black Women in African American Literature posits strength as a frequently contradictory and damaging trait for black women characters in several literary works of the twentieth century. Authors of these works draw upon popular images of African American women in producing what they believe to be safe literary representations. Instead, strength becomes a problematic trait at times a disease in many characters in which it appears. It has a detrimental impact on the relatives and neighbors of such women as well as on the women themselves. The pattern of portraying women characters as strong in African American literature has become so pronounced that it has stifled the literature. Alice Walker Gerri Bates, 2005-10-30. Alice Walker, born in Eatonton, Georgia, in 1944, overcame a disadvantaged sharecropping background, blindness in one eye, and the tense times of the Civil Rights Movement to become one of the world's most respected African American writers. While attending both Spelman and Sarah Lawrence Colleges, Walker began to draw on both her personal tragedies and those of her community to write poetry, essays, short stories, and novels that would tell the virtually untold stories of oppressed African and African American women, providing readers with hope and inspiring activism. Perhaps best known for her novel The Color Purple (1982), which won the Pulitzer Prize in 1983 and became a controversial film three years later, Walker has introduced and developed womanist theory, criticism, and practice and continues to champion the causes of women of color by encouraging their strength and liberation in her life and her writings. Literary works analyzed in this volume: The Third Life of Grange Copeland, Meridian, The Color Purple, The Temple of My Familiar, Possessing the Secret of Joy, By the Light of My Father's Smile, The Way Forward Is With a Broken Heart, Now Is the Time to Open Your Heart. The African American Guide to Writing & Publishing Non-Fiction, Jewell Parker Rhodes, 2002-02-05. In college and graduate school, Jewell Parker Rhodes never encountered a single reading assignment or exercise that featured a person of color. Now she has made it her mission to rectify the situation, gathering advice and inspiring tips tailored for African Americans seeking to express their life experiences. Comprehensive and totally energizing, The African American Guide to Writing and Publishing Nonfiction bursts with supportive topics such as finding your voice, getting to know your literary ancestors, overcoming a bruised ego, and finding the determination to pursue your dreams. Gathering material and conducting research, tapping sweet, bittersweet, and joyful memories, knowing when to keep revising and when to let go. The guide also features unforgettable excerpts from luminaries such as Maya Angelou, Brent Staples, Houston Baker, and pointers from bestselling African American authors Patrice Gaines, E. Lynn Harris, James McBride, John Hope Franklin, Pearl Cleage, Edwidge Danticat, and many others. It is a uniquely nurturing and informative touchstone for affirming, bearing witness, leaving a legacy, and celebrating the remarkable journey of the self. The World Is Our Home, Jeffrey J. Folks, Nancy Summers Folks, 2021-10-21. Since the early 1970s, southern fiction has been increasingly attentive to social issues, including the continuing struggles for racial justice and gender equality, the loss of a sense of social community, and the decline of a coherent regional identity. The essays in The World Is Our Home focus on writers who have explicitly addressed social and cultural issues in their fiction and drama.

including Dorothy Allison Horton Foote Ernest J Gaines Jill McCorkle Walker Percy Lee Smith William Styron Alice Walker and many others The contributors provide valuable insights into the transformation of southern culture over the past thirty years and probe the social and cultural divisions that persist The collection makes an important case for the centrality of social critique in contemporary southern fiction

The Power of the Porch Trudier Harris, 1996 In ways that are highly individual says Harris yet still within a shared oral tradition Zora Neale Hurston Gloria Naylor and Randall Kenan skillfully use storytelling techniques to define their audiences reach out and draw them in and fill them with anticipation Considering how such dynamics come into play in Hurston's Mules and Men Naylor's Mama Day and Kenan's Let the Dead Bury Their Dead Harris shows how the power of the porch resides in readers as well who in giving themselves over to a story confer it on the writer Against this background of give and take anticipation and fulfillment Harris considers Zora Neale Hurston's special challenges as a black woman writer in the thirties and how her various roles as an anthropologist folklorist and novelist intermingle in her work In Gloria Naylor's writing Harris finds particularly satisfying themes and characters A New York native Naylor came to a knowledge of the South through her parents and during her stay on the Sea Islands she wrote Mama Day A southerner by birth Randall Kenan is particularly adept in getting his readers to accept aspects of African American culture that their rational minds might have wanted to reject Although Kenan is set apart from Hurston and Naylor by his alliances with a new generation of writers intent upon broaching certain taboo subjects in his case gay life in small southern towns Kenan's Tims Creek is as rife with the otherworldly and the fantastic as Hurston's New Orleans and Naylor's Willow Springs
