Urban Planning and Public Health in Africa Ambe J. Njoh, 2016-02-11 Established indicators of development suggest that as a group African countries lag behind their counterparts in other regions with respect to public health Particularly noteworthy is the fact that the public health problems of these countries are rooted in preventable causes associated with hygiene and sanitation It is customary to attribute the problems that ail Africa to the lack of financial resources This book deviates from convention by suggesting non financial factors as the source of sanitation problems on the continent and argues the need to re connect urban planning to public health These two professions are consanguine relatives and emerged to combat the negative externalities of the industrial revolution and concomitant urbanization However with the passage of time the professions drifted apart Today more than ever there is a need for the two to be re connected This need is rooted in the increasing complexity of urban problems whose resolution requires interdisciplinary initiatives To this end there is hardly any question that urban public health initiatives are unlikely to succeed without the collaboration of both public health and urban planning experts The book recognizes this truism and stands as the first major academic work to demonstrate the inextricably intertwined nature of urban planning and urban public health in Africa

Housing for All A.K. Jain, This book titled Housing for All Design Construction and Management by A K Jain is a comprehensive assessment of the housing situation in India which not only traces the path taken by governments so far but also outlines a roadmap for the future The book begins with an overview of the housing scenario in India It discusses various housing programmes and draws a distinction between affordable housing and adequate housing The book also draws particular attention to housing issues of special groups such as the elderly disabled homeless migrant and transit workers students and single women There is also a discussion on the issue of social and physical infrastructure The book notes that housing units alone do not constitute housing but infrastructure plays a critical role in the occupancy of housing The question of reducing the cost of housing has been vexatious for long Jain deals with this issue in detail and suggests various low cost technologies and house building systems for making housing more affordable Another issue is that of rental housing Jain suggests that giving a boost to rental housing through a slew of measures can go a long way in making housing more accessible and bring vacant housing into the market

Global Environmental Change and Human Security

Richard A. Matthew, Jon Barnett, Bryan McDonald, Karen L. O'Brien, 2009-10-09 Experts discuss the risks global environmental change poses for the human security including disaster and disease violence and increasing inequity In recent years scholars in international relations and other fields have begun to conceive of security more broadly moving away from a state centered concept of national security toward the idea of human security which emphasizes the individual and human well being Viewing global environmental change through the lens of human security connects such problems as melting ice caps and carbon emissions to poverty vulnerability equity and conflict This book examines the complex social health and economic consequences of environmental change across the globe In chapters that are both academically rigorous and policy relevant the book discusses the connections of global environmental change to urban poverty natural disasters with a case study of Hurricane Katrina violent conflict with a study of the decade long Nepalese civil war population gender and development The book makes clear the inadequacy of traditional understandings of security and shows how global environmental change is raising new unavoidable questions of human insecurity conflict cooperation and sustainable development Contributors W Neil Adger Jennifer Bailey Jon Barnett Victoria Basolo Hans Georg Bohle Mike Brklacich May Chazan Chris Cocklin Geoffrey D Dabelko Indra de Soysa Heather Goldsworthy Betsy Hartmann Robin M Leichenko Laura Little Alexander Lopez Richard A Matthew Bryan McDonald Eric Neumayer Kwasi Nsiah Gyabaah Karen L O'Brien Marvin S Soroos Bishnu Raj Upreti

The Urbanization of Forced Displacement

Neil James Wilson Crawford, 2022-01-31 Displacement in the twenty first century is urbanized The United Nations Refugee Agency UNHCR the world's largest humanitarian organization and the main body charged with assisting displaced people globally estimates that over 60 per cent of refugees now live in urban areas a proportion that only increases in the case of internally displaced people and asylum seekers Though cities and local authorities have become essential participants in the protection of refugees only three decades ago they were considered to sit firmly beyond UNHCR's remit with urban refugees typically characterized as aberrations In The Urbanization of Forced Displacement Neil James Wilson Crawford examines the organization's response to the growing number of refugees migrating to urban areas Introducing a broader study of policy making in international organizations Crawford addresses how and why UNHCR changed its policy and practice in response to shifting trends in displacement Citing over 400 primary UN documents Crawford provides an in depth study of the internal and external pressures faced by UNHCR pressures from above below and within that explain why it has radically transformed its position from the 1990s onward UNHCR and global refugee policies have come to play an increasingly important role in the governance of global displacement The Urbanization of Forced Displacement sheds new light on how the organization works and how it conceives its role in global politics today Climate Resilient, Green and Low Carbon Built Environment Ashok Kumar Jain,2023-04-26 This book constitutes state of the art research covering a wide range of topics including climate change and carbon emissions air quality and pollution control urbanism land and circular economy sustainable transport energy water biodiversity and greenery environmental services housing and construction with respect to the built environment The concepts of sustainability in built environment conclude with reimagining the city The content includes pedagogical features such as examples simple flowing language and over 100 figures The book aims to motivate architects engineers consultants builders and planners to respond to the challenges of sustainability in the built environment

Liquid Assets Jill Boberg,2005-11-11 Most writings linking demographic trends to water availability often look only at population growth effects treating water supplies as static and population as increasing inexorably leading to a water availability crisis This report s more holistic view of the interaction between demographics and water resources considers more demographic and local water availability variables It focuses on conditions in developing countries where these factors intersect with the fewest socioeconomic resources to mediate The Urban Condition Brendan Gleeson,2014-05-23 This book will speak to the new human epoch the Urban Age A majority of humanity now lives for the first time in cities The city the highest invention of the modern age is now the human heartland And yet the same process that brought us the city and its wonders modernisation has also thrown up challenges and threats especially climate change resource depletion social division and economic insecurity This book considers how these threats are encountered and countered in the urban age focusing on the issue of human knowledge and self awareness just as Hannah Arendt s influential The Human Condition did half a century ago The Human Condition is now The Urban Condition And it is this condition that will define human prospects in an age of default and risk Gleeson expertly explores the concept through three main themes The first is an exploration of what defines the current human condition especially the expanding cities that are at the heart of an over consumptive world economic order The second exposes and reviews the reawakening of forms of knowledge naturalism that are likely to worsen not improve our comprehension of the crisis The new science of urbanism in popular new literature exemplifies this dangerous trend The third and last part of the book considers prospects for a new urban and therefore human dispensation The Good City We must first journey in our urban vessels through troubled times But can we now start to plot the way to new shores to a safer more resilient city that provides for human flourishing The Urban Condition attempts this ideal conceiving a new urbanism based on the old idea of self limitation The Urban Condition is an original timely book that reconsiders and redeploys Arendt's famous notion of The Human Condition in an age of cities and risk. It brings together several important strands of human consideration: urbanisation, climate threat, resource depletion, economic default, and critical knowledge, and weaves them into a new analysis of the times. It also looks to a future that is nearly with us of changed climate, resource scarcity, and economic stress. The book journeys into these troubled times, proposing the idea of Lifeboat Cities as a way of thinking about the human journey to come.
