health to clinical diagnosis Caroline Gurvich, Susan L. Rossell,2015-08-31 Psychiatric symptoms are considered to be distributed along a continuum from good mental health to a diagnosable psychiatric disorder In the case of psychosis subclinical psychotic experiences which can include odd behaviors strange speech unusual perceptual experiences and social emotional withdrawal are often referred to as schizotypy Research examining schizotypal traits in non clinical populations is rapidly expanding The exploration of schizotypy allows us to identify areas of overlap with psychiatric disorders schizophrenia and related disorders at genetic biological environmental and psychosocial levels thus identifying putative risk factors as well as exploring potentially protective factors Schizotypy is also a valuable model for exploring cognition as performance is not confounded by issues often present in schizophrenia samples such as long term antipsychotic medication usage social isolation and recurrent hospitalizations Investigating cognition is a particularly important area of research as cognitive symptoms in schizophrenia such as impaired attention reduced memory and difficulties with executive functions are a core feature of schizophrenia and strongly related to quality of life and functional outcomes yet generally respond poorly to current treatment options The aim of this special Research Topic is to explore the relationship between cognition schizotypy and the schizophrenia spectrum The articles in this e book draw on a variety of perspectives and represent an interesting array of opinions reviews and empirical studies that begin to answer questions about the similarities and overlaps between schizotypy and schizophrenia spectrum disorders contributing to our understanding of potential risk factors Equally important is research that highlights differences between schizotypy and schizophrenia spectrum disorders that may enhance our understanding of potentially protective or adaptive features of schizotypy Collectively these articles highlight the exploratory potential of the study of schizotypy particularly in relation to better understanding cognition across the schizophrenia spectrum

Review of the Edwards Aquifer Habitat Conservation Plan National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Water Science and Technology Board, Committee to Review the Edwards Aquifer Habitat Conservation Plan, 2015-06-10 The Edwards Aquifer in south central Texas is the primary source of water for one of the fastest growing cities in the United States San Antonio and it also supplies irrigation water to thousands of farmers and livestock operators It is also the source water for several springs and rivers including the two largest freshwater springs in Texas that form the San Marcos and Comal Rivers The unique habitat afforded by these spring fed rivers has led to the development of species that are found in no other locations on Earth Due to the potential for variations in spring flow caused by both human and natural causes these species are continuously at risk and have been recognized as endangered under the federal Endangered Species Act ESA In an effort to manage the river systems and the aquifer that controls them the Edwards Aquifer Authority and stakeholders have developed a Habitat Conservation Plan HCP The HCP seeks to effectively manage the river aquifer system to ensure the viability of the ESA listed species in the face of drought population growth and other threats to the aquifer The National Research Council was asked to assist in this process by reviewing the activities around implementing the HCP Review of the Edwards Aquifer Habitat Conservation Plan Report 1 is the first stage of a three stage study This report reviews the scientific efforts that are being conducted to help build a better understanding of the river aquifer system and its relationship to the ESA listed species These efforts which include monitoring and modeling as well as research on key uncertainties in the system are designed to build a better understanding of how best to manage and protect the system and the endangered species Thus the current report is focused specifically on a review of the hydrologic modeling the ecological modeling the water quality and biological monitoring and the Applied Research Program The fundamental question that Review of the Edwards Aquifer Habitat Conservation Plan Report 1 addresses is whether the scientific initiatives appropriately address uncertainties and fill knowledge gaps in the river aquifer system and the species of concern It is hoped that the successful completion of these scientific initiatives will ultimately lead the Edwards Aquifer Authority to an improved understanding of how to manage the system and protect these species Business & Society O.C.
