On the Miss Middleton Effect Geraldine E. Rodgers,2022-07-20 Miss Middleton s scores are indeed a frozen moment in time which prove the existence in 1913 and 1914 of automatic phonic decoding of print as opposed to conscious psycholinguistic decoding of print The scores also prove that automatic decoding does result from the phonic sound method to teach reading since that is how Miss Middleton s children learned to read However the reading experts in 1914 and after must have misinterpreted scores like Miss Middleton s wildly fluctuating scores which obviously were the result of freely wandering attention by concluding instead that the scores had proved that the sound method had failed The truth is that such low reading comprehension scores on silent reading comprehension tests for phonic trained classes suggest the presence of healthy automatic conditioned reflexes in reading Such scores may result from the Miss Middleton Effect of voluntarily wandering attention while reading automatically Her children simply did not bother to pay attention to what they were reading automatically but could have done so if they felt like it Yet the inferior deaf mute sight word method forces children s attention to meaning or they cannot read at all They may therefore score higher on simple reading comprehension tests but far far worse on spelling and on reading correctly the actual words on the page from early writing systems to computer models of reading In this book Diane McGuinness provides an innovative solution to the reading war the century old debate over the efficacy of phonics sound based versus whole word meaning based methods She has developed a prototype a set of elements that are critical to the success of a reading method McGuinness shows that all writing systems without exception are based on a sound unit in the language This fact and other findings by paleographers provides a platform for the prototype Other elements of the prototype are based on modern research For example observational studies in the classroom show that time spent on three activities strongly predicts reading success learning phoneme symbol correspondences practice at blending and segmenting phonemes in words and copying writing words phrases and sentences Most so called literacy activities have no effect and some like sight word memorization have a strongly negative effect The National Reading Panel 2000 summarized the research on reading methods after screening out thousands of studies that failed to meet minimum scientific standards In an in depth analysis of this evidence McGuinness shows that the most successful methods children reading a year or more above age norms include all the elements in the prototype Finally she argues because phonics type methods are consistently shown to be superior to whole word methods in studies dating back to the 1960s it makes no sense to continue this line of research The most urgent question for future research is how to get the most effective phonics programs into the classroom
