Beauty Chrysostomos A. Stamoulis, 2022-08-25 The philosophical and theological study of aesthetics has a long and rich history stretching back to Plato's identification of ultimate goodness and beauty together representing the eternal form Recent trends in aesthetic theory however characterised by a focus on the beautiful at the expense of the good have made it an object of suspicion in the Orthodox Church In its place Greek theologians have sought to emphasise philokalia as a truer theological discipline Seeking to reverse this trend Chrysostomos Stamoulis brings into conversation a plethora of voices from Church fathers to contemporary poets and from a Marxist political theorist to a literary critic Out of this dialogue Stamoulis builds a model for the re appropriation of Orthodox's patristic and Byzantine past that is no longer defined in antithesis to the Western present The openness he proposes allows us to perceive afresh the world shot through with divinity if only we can lift our gaze to see it Dismantling the false dichotomy philokalia or aesthetics is the first step Here Casts own Spy, 1995-02 Smart Funny Fearless It's pretty safe to say that Spy was the most influential magazine of the 1980s. It might have remade New York's cultural landscape; it definitely changed the whole tone of magazine journalism. It was cruel, brilliant, beautifully written, and perfectly designed and feared by all. There's no magazine I know of that's so continually referenced, held up as a benchmark, and whose demise is so lamented. Dave Eggers: It's a piece of garbage. Donald Trump

You Don't Belong Here Elizabeth Becker, 2021-03-02 The long buried story of three extraordinary female journalists who permanently shattered the barriers to women covering war: Kate Webb, an Australian iconoclast; Catherine Leroy, a French daredevil photographer; and Frances FitzGerald, a blue blood American intellectual. Arrived in Vietnam with starkly different life experiences but one shared purpose: to report on the most consequential story of the decade. At a time when women were considered unfit to be foreign reporters, Frankie Catherine and Kate challenged the rules imposed on them by the military, ignored the belittlement of their male peers, and ultimately altered the craft of war reportage for generations. In You Don't Belong Here, Elizabeth Becker uses these women's work and lives to illuminate the Vietnam War from the 1965 American buildup, the expansion into Cambodia, and the American defeat and its aftermath. Arriving herself in the last years of the war, Becker writes as a historian and a witness of the times. What emerges is an unforgettable story of three journalists forging their place in a land of men, often at great personal sacrifice. Deeply reported and filled with personal letters, interviews, and profound insight, You Don't Belong Here fills a void in the history of women and of war. A riveting read with much to say about the nature of war and the different ways men and women correspondents cover it. Frank, fast-paced, often enraging, You Don't Belong Here speaks to the distance travelled and the journey still ahead. Geraldine Brooks, Pulitzer Prize-winning author of March, former Wall Street Journal foreign correspondent. Riveting, powerful, and transformative. Elizabeth Becker's You Don't Belong Here tells the stories of three astonishing women. This is a timely and brilliant work from one of our most extraordinary war correspondents. Madeleine Thien, Booker Prize finalist and author of Do Not Say We Have Nothing. Living Smart Pennie Core-Gebhart, Susan J. Hart, Michael Young, 1991-01-01 Beauty & the Beasts Janice Kay Johnson, 2011-07-15 From the author of The Miracle Baby: Veterinarian Dr. Eric Bergstrom, a ladies' man if you want to put it kindly, a womanizer if you don't. He's volunteered his services at the local cat shelter; she's involved with him. He's even adopted one of the shelter's cats. But he still can't manage to get Madeline to go out with him. Then Eric's twelve-year-old son, Garth, comes to town, making it clear that he resents having to spend the summer with his father. Garth and Madeline get along just fine, however. Until the twelve-year-old realizes his father's interested in her. You know your life isn't going well when only your cat loves you.
