Student Exploration: Diffusion

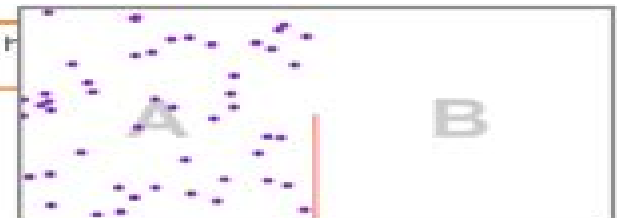

Directions: Follow the instructions to go through the simulation. Respond to the questions and prompts in the orange boxes.

Vocabulary: absolute zero, controlled experiment, diffusion, dynamic equilibrium, Kelvin scale, kinetic energy

Prior Knowledge Question (Do this BEFORE using the Gizmo.)

Have you ever smelled microwave popcorn? The oddly enticing scent can fill a whole house. How do you think the smell of popcorn spreads through the air?

This is through the process of diffusion, the gases spread throughout the chamber from high concentration to low concentration.

Gizmo Warm-up

Smells are carried by tiny particles that move through the air. The Diffusion Gizmo shows gas particles in a chamber that is divided into two regions by a partial wall. Click Play () and observe.

1. Describe the motion of the gas particles.

The gas particles are fast-moving and constantly in motion, bouncing off the walls. In the beginning, many particles move to side B as it has a lower concentration than side A.

2. Over time, what is happening?

Over time, the concentrations of particles even out on both sides (become isotonic), due to the movement of particles from a high concentration to a low concentration.

This process, in which particles move from an area of high concentration (region A) to an area of low concentration (region B), is called diffusion.

3. Select the BAR CHART tab, and observe the chart for a few minutes. After the first 30 seconds or so, how much do the numbers of particles in each region change?

The numbers of particles in each region do not change drastically after 30 seconds of net movement. For example, in region B at 0 seconds, the number of particles was 0 and only increased to 10 at 30 seconds.

When the numbers don't change much, the particles are said to be in dynamic equilibrium.

Student Exploration Guide Diffusion Answers:

A Student's Guide to Culture John Stonestreet, Brett Kunkle, 2020-01-01 The student edition of the popular A Practical Guide to Culture by John Stonestreet and Brett Kunkle delivers a hopeful message to readers ages 15-25 who live every day with increasing cultural pressure. These young people struggle to navigate contemporary challenges to their Christian faith and values but will be encouraged to emerge as leaders. In A Student's Guide to Culture, Stonestreet and Kunkle write in a highly relational style sharing insight and experience. Jumping off from the original version, this guide includes all new discussion questions and stories that remind young readers that they can live differently and be a light in a culture that sometimes feels overwhelming. Resources in Education, 2001-10 Learning to Think Spatially National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Earth Sciences and Resources, Geographical Sciences Committee, Committee on Support for Thinking Spatially: The Incorporation of Geographic Information Science Across the K-12 Curriculum, 2005-01-03 Learning to Think Spatially examines how spatial thinking might be incorporated into existing standards-based instruction across the school curriculum. Spatial thinking must be recognized as a fundamental part of K-12 education and as an integrator and a facilitator for problem solving across the curriculum. With advances in computing technologies and the increasing availability of geospatial data, spatial thinking will play a significant role in the information-based economy of the twenty-first century. Using appropriately designed support systems tailored to the K-12 context, spatial thinking can be taught formally to all students. A geographic information system (GIS) offers one example of a high technology support system that can enable students and teachers to practice and apply spatial thinking in many areas of the curriculum.

Research in Education, 1974 Responsive Teaching in Science and Mathematics Amy D. Robertson, Rachel Scherr, David Hammer, 2015-10-05 Answering calls in recent reform documents to shape instruction in response to students' ideas while integrating key concepts and scientific and/or mathematical practices, this text presents the concept of responsive teaching, synthesizes existing research, and examines implications for both research and teaching. Case studies across the curriculum from elementary school through adult education illustrate the variety of forms this approach to instruction and learning can take, what is common among them, and how teachers and students experience it. The cases include intellectual products of students' work in responsive classrooms and address assessment methods and issues. Many of the cases are supplemented with online resources (<http://www.studentsthinking.org/rtsm>) including classroom video and extensive transcripts providing readers with additional opportunities to immerse themselves in responsive classrooms and to see for themselves what these environments look and feel like. Handbook of Design Research Methods in Education Anthony E. Kelly, Richard A. Lesh, John Y. Baek, 2014-07-16 This Handbook presents the latest thinking and current examples of design research in education. Design-based research involves introducing innovations into real-world practices as opposed to constrained laboratory contexts and examining the impact of those designs on the learning process. Designed prototype applications e.g.

instructional methods software or materials and the research findings are then cycled back into the next iteration of the design innovation in order to build evidence of the particular theories being researched and to positively impact practice and the diffusion of the innovation The Handbook of Design Research Methods in Education the defining book for the field fills a need in how to conduct design research by those doing so right now The chapters represent a broad array of interpretations and examples of how today's design researchers conceptualize this emergent methodology across areas as diverse as educational leadership diffusion of innovations complexity theory and curriculum research This volume is designed as a guide for doctoral students early career researchers and cross over researchers from fields outside of education interested in supporting innovation in educational settings through conducting design research
