

Arithmetic and Geometric Sequences

A sequence is a list of numbers or objects, called terms, in a certain order. In an arithmetic sequence, the difference between one term and the next is always the same. This difference is called a common difference. The common difference is added to each term to get the next term.

2, 5, 8, 11, 14, ...

This is an increasing arithmetic sequence with a common difference of 3.

32, 26, 20, 14, 8, ...

This is a decreasing arithmetic sequence with a common difference of  $-6$ .

If asked to extend either of these patterns (the next 3 terms), you need to know the last term and then you can go on from there. These are examples of recursive sequences.

Example: What are the next three terms in the sequence?

1, 5, 9, 13, ... I can see that this is an arithmetic sequence with a common difference of 4. To get the next three terms, add 4 to 13 which equals 17, the next term in the sequence. Then add 4 to 17 to get the next term to get 21, etc. So the next three terms are 17, 21, and 25.

In a recursive sequence, you need to know the previous term to get the next term.

In an explicit sequence, you can calculate any term in a sequence in a direct way using the first term and the common difference.

Use the following formula to find any term of an arithmetic sequence.

$$a_n = a_1 + (n - 1)d$$

$a_n$  = the term in the sequence you are trying to find (n represents the desired term number)

$a_1$  = the first term in the sequence

$d$  = the common difference
