Author: Nekisa Mahzad

I have been a student at California State University Channel Islands (CI) for 5 semesters, and over the course of my stay I have grown and learned more than I thought possible. I came to this school from Moorpark Community College already knowing that I wanted to be an English teacher; I had taken numerous English courses and though I knew exactly what I was headed for-was I ever wrong. Going through the English program has taught me so much more than stuff about literature and language, it has taught me how to be me. I have learned here how to write and express myself, how to think for myself, and how to find the answers to the things that I don't know. Most importantly I have learned how important literature and language are.

When I started at CI, I thought I was going to spend the next 3 years reading classics, discussing them and then writing about them. That was what I did in community college English courses, so I didn't think it would be much different here. On the surface, to an outsider, I am sure that this is what it appears that C.I. English majors do. In most all my classes I did read, discuss, and write papers; however, I quickly found out that that there was so much more to it. One specific experience I had while at C.I. really shows how integrated this learning is. Instead of writing a paper for my final project in Perspectives of Multicultural Literature (ENGL 449), I decided with a friend to venture to an Indian reservation and compare it to a book we read by Sherman Alexie. We had a great time and we learned so much more that we ever could have done from writing a paper. The opportunity to do that showed me that there are so many ways that one can learn that are both fun and educational.

The English courses also taught me how powerful the written word and language can be. Words tell so much more than a story. Stories tell about life and the human condition, they bring up the past and people and cultures that are long gone. Literature teaches about the self and the world surrounding the self. From these classes I learned about the world, its people and its history; through literature I learned how we as humans are all related. By writing about what we learn and/or what we believe, we are learning how to express ourselves.

I know that my ability to write and express my ideas, thoughts and knowledge has grown stronger each semester. I have always struggled to put my thoughts on paper in a manner that is coherent and correct according to assignments. I can remember being told numerous times in community college to "organize your

Resources in Education ,2001-10 Rigor by Design, Not Chance Karin Hess, 2023-01-18 A practical and systematic approach to deepening student engagement promoting a growth mindset and building a classroom culture that truly supports thinking and learning Every student deserves access to deep and rigorous learning Still some persistent myths about rigor can get in the way such as the belief that it means more or harder work for everyone rather than challenging and advancing students thinking So how can teachers get more clarity on rigor and foster more meaningful learning in their classrooms In Rigor by Design Not Chance veteran educator Karin Hess offers not only a clear vision of what makes learning deep and rigorous but also a systematic and equitable approach for engaging students of all ages in rich learning tasks To that end she outlines five essential teacher moves that foster thinking and learning

- 1 Ask a series of probing questions of increasing complexity
- 2 Build schemas in each content area
- 3 Consider ways to strategically scaffold learning
- 4 Design complex tasks that emphasize transfer and evidence based solutions
- 5 Engage students in metacognition and reflection throughout the learning process

From there Hess details how to create an actionable assessment cycle that will drive learning forward in any classroom This book offers a treasure trove of strategies student look for behaviors and templates to guide teachers in their work as well as an array of rich performance based assessments to engage and challenge students School leaders and instructional coaches can also benefit from the variety of teacher friendly supports to foster rigorous learning in their schools Ultimately Rigor by Design Not Chance helps educators empower

students to take greater ownership of their own learning

Work in Hand Aileen Douglas, 2017-03-02 Oxford Textual Perspectives is a new series of informative and provocative studies focused upon literary texts conceived of in the broadest sense of that term and the technologies cultures and communities that produce inform and receive them It provides fresh interpretations of fundamental works and of the vital and challenging issues emerging in English literary studies By engaging with the materiality of the literary text its production and reception history and frequently testing and exploring the boundaries of the notion of text itself the volumes in the series question familiar frameworks and provide innovative interpretations of both canonical and less well known works Work in Hand Script Print and Writing 1690 1840 argues that between the late seventeenth and early nineteenth centuries manual writing was a dynamic technology It examines script in relation to becoming a writer in constructions of the author and in emerging ideas of the human Revising views of print as displacing script Work in Hand argues that print reproduced script print generated script and print shaped understandings of script In this the double nature of print as both moveable type and rolling press is crucial During this period the shapes of letters changed as the multiple hands of the early modern period gave way to English round hand the denial of writing to the labouring classes was slowly replaced by acceptance of the desirability of universal writing understandings of script in relation to copying and discipline came to be accompanied by ideas of the autograph The work begins by surveying representations of script in letterpress and engraving It discusses initiation into writing in relation to the copy books of English writing masters and in the context of colonial pedagogy in Ireland and India The middle chapters discuss the physical work of writing the material dimensions of script and the autograph in constructions of the author in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries and in relation to Samuel Johnson Alexander Pope William Blake Isaac D Israeli and Maria Edgeworth The final chapter considers the emerging association of script with ideas of the human in the work of the Methodist preacher Joseph Barker

A Rhetoric of Reflection Kathleen Yancey, 2016-08-15 Reflection in writing studies is now entering a third generation Dating from the 1970s the first generation of reflection focused on identifying and describing internal cognitive processes assumed to be part of composing The second generation operating in both classroom and assessment scenes in the 1990s developed mechanisms for externalizing reflection making it visible and thus explicitly available to help writers Now a third generation of work in reflection is emerging As mapped by the contributors to A Rhetoric of Reflection this iteration of research and practice is taking up new questions in new sites of activity and with new theories It comprises attention to transfer of writing knowledge and practice teaching and assessment portfolios linguistic and cultural difference and various media including print and digital It conceptualizes conversation as a primary reflective medium both inside and outside the classroom and for individuals and collectives and articulates the role that different genres play in hosting reflection Perhaps most important in the work of this third generation is the identification and increasing appreciation of the epistemic value of reflection of its ability to help make new meanings and of its rhetorical power for both scholars and students Contributors Anne Beaufort Kara Taczak Liane Robertson Michael Neal Heather Ostman Cathy Leaker Bruce Horner Asao B Inoue Tyler Richmond J Elizabeth Clark Naomi Silver Christina Russell McDonald Pamela Flash Kevin Roozen Jeff Sommers Doug Hesse
