An Analysis of Zora Neale Hurston's Characteristics of Negro Expression Mercedes Aguirre, Benjamin Lempert, 2017-07-05 The racial prejudices of 1930s America were many and included a common presumption that African American art was unoriginal merely poorly copying white culture African American novelist anthropologist and essayist Zora Neale Hurston crushingly evaluated such assumptions in her 1934 essay Characteristics of Negro Expression While Hurston's approach and premises seem in many ways dated to modern readers the essay still shows an incisive mind carefully evaluating arguments and cutting them down to size African American art of the time did not Hurston influentially argued play by the same rules as white art so it could not meaningfully be discussed by white notions of aesthetic value Where white European tradition views art as something fixed Hurston saw African American art works as a distinctive form of mimicry reshaping and altering the original object until it became something new and novel In this way she contended African American creative expression is a process that generates its own form of originality turning borrowed material into something original and unique By carefully evaluating the relevance of previous arguments Hurston showed African American artistic expression in an entirely new light
