Continental Drift

Wegener's Idea

- Alfred Wegener was a meteorologist and explorer born in 1880.
- In 1911 he found cases of identical fossils of plants and animals on opposite sides of oceans.
- The explanation produced at the time was that land bridges had once stretched between these continents.
- He supported the idea that South America and Africa had once been joined, and he found evidence to support this hypothesis.

Keep in mind that the Continental Drift Theory states that the movement of the Earth's continents relative to each other by appearing to drift across the ocean bed.

Wegener's Evidence

- Continents seemed to fit together. For example, the west coast of Africa seemed to align with the east coast of South America.
- Ancient fossils of the same species found in rocks of same age on separate continent. It was impossible for the ancient animals to travel across oceans due to physical limitations such as weight and lack of ability to swim.
- Identical rock types and ages found on both sides of the Atlantic ocean
- Mountain ranges with identical rock type, age, and structure found on opposite sides of the Atlantic Ocean.
- Grooves and rock deposits left by ancient glaciers are found today on different continents very close to the equator. Glaciers were originally massed together in the South Pole but dispersed as continents moved.

Wegener discovered that the fossils of the same creatures are found in many different continents, suggesting that continents moved apart over time.
