Machines like Us Ronald J. Brachman, Hector J. Levesque, 2023-10-17 How we can create artificial intelligence with broad robust common sense rather than narrow specialized expertise It s sometime in the not so distant future and you send your fully autonomous self driving car to the store to pick up your grocery order The car is endowed with as much capability as an artificial intelligence agent can have programmed to drive better than you do But when the car encounters a traffic light stuck on red it just sits there indefinitely Its obstacle avoidance lane following and route calculation capacities are all irrelevant it fails to act because it lacks the common sense of a human driver who would quickly figure out what's happening and find a workaround. In Machines like Us, Ron Brachman and Hector Levesque, both leading experts in AI, consider what it would take to create machines with common sense rather than just the specialized expertise of today's AI systems. Using the stuck traffic light and other relatable examples, Brachman and Levesque offer an accessible account of how common sense might be built into a machine. They analyze common sense in humans, explain how AI over the years has focused mainly on expertise, and suggest ways to endow an AI system with both common sense and effective reasoning. Finally, they consider the critical issue of how we can trust an autonomous machine to make decisions, identifying two fundamental requirements for trustworthy autonomous AI systems: having reasons for doing what they do and being able to accept advice. Both, in the end, are dependent on having common sense.

Start-Up Creation F. Pacheco-Torgal, Erik Stavnsager Rasmussen, Claes G.

Granqvist, Volodymyr Ivanov, Arturas Kaklauskas, Stephen Makonin, 2020-05-24. Start up creation is the most distinctive feature of the entrepreneurial knowledge-based economy. It is also essential for economic growth and especially important in the current context of young graduates' high unemployment rates that are expected to increase in the next few decades. There are other books on the creation of start-up companies designed to be of value to academics wishing to exploit the commercial value of a new technology or business solution, but none of these existing titles focus on start-up creation in the construction industry. In the second edition of this extremely successful title, the editors present a state-of-the-art review on advanced technologies and their application in several areas of the built environment: covering energy efficiency, structural performance, air and water quality to inspire the creation of start-up companies from university research. Part One begins with the key factors behind successful start-up companies from university research, including the development of a business plan, start-up financing, and the importance of intellectual property. Part Two focuses on the use of Big Data, Intelligent decision support systems, the Internet of Things, and their use in the energy efficiency of the built environment. Finally, Part Three is an entire new section that focuses on several smartphone applications for the smart built environment. While in the first edition, the section concerning apps for smart buildings had just two chapters: one for app programming basics and a second, a case study on building security. In this second edition, the core of the book is about app development, which constitutes 50% of the book. Entire new section that was not available in the first edition on smart phone applications and virtual assistance for infrastructure monitoring. Chapters on business plans, start-up financing, and intellectual property have been brought fully up to date, as well as algorithms, big data, and the Internet of Things for eco-efficient smart buildings. Comprehensive guide to start-ups that arise from college and university research and how the application of advanced technology can be applied to the built environment.
