Irudaya Rajan, 2022-01-26 This volume is an empirical assessment of an often neglected space in migration research social psychological and human costs for both migrants and the families they leave behind based on qualitative and quantitative research findings Globally the focus of migration research has consisted of the intersections of migration and remittances This overemphasis on remittances obscures the contributions and sacrifices made by migrants and their families With this backdrop in view India Migration Report 2013 documents issues such as Children s negotiation of parental migration Coping mechanisms adopted by women left behind Utilization of social networks by the elderly during a health crisis Demographic implications of migration Household management and child care by spouses of migrant nurses Lifestyle management by the elderly who migrate with their children in the absence of other traditional and familiar kinship structures Transition costs involved in peasant migration Social costs of migration in the case of emigration to the Gulf region Broader impacts of migration on the family In addition the book also includes articles dealing with nurses migration skilled mobility informalization of labour markets mobility of women workers global financial crisis and return migration remittances management and a critical assessment of bilateral mobility agreements among nations to protect Indian workers It will be of interest to those in migration studies sociology law economics gender studies diaspora studies international relations and demography apart from non governmental organizations policy makers and governmental institutions working in the field of migration

The Last Torpedo Flyers Arthur Aldridge, 2013-05-23 Imagine you are an RAF torpedo pilot in World War Two sent on missions so dangerous that you re later likened to the Kamikaze Suicide wasn t a recognised part of the objective for British airmen yet some pilots felt they had accepted certain death just by climbing into their cockpits There were times in 1942 when Arthur Aldridge felt like this At the age of 19 this courageous young man had quit his studies at Oxford to volunteer for the RAF He flew his Bristol Beaufort like there was no tomorrow a realistic assumption after seeing his best friend die in flames at the end of 1941 Aldridge was awarded a DFC Distinguished Flying Cross for his bravery on the same strike on a German cargo ship during which he lost a wing tip by flying too close to the deck He was equally lucky to survive his squadron s chaotic torpedo attack on the giants of Hitler s maritime fleet during the notorious Channel Dash which saw 40 RAF planes shot down As 1942 wore on and the stress became intolerable Aldridge and his Cockney gunner Bill Carroll held their nerve and Arty was awarded a Bar to his DFC for sinking two enemy ships off Malta and rescuing a fellow pilot while wounded as his own Beaufort took four shells Malta was saved by the skin of its teeth Rommel denied vital supplies in North Africa and the course of the war was turned Aldridge was still only 21 years old Now both 91 but firm friends as ever Aldridge and Carroll are two of the last torpedo airmen who deserve their place in history alongside our heroic Spitfire pilots Their story vividly captures the comradeship that existed between men pushed by war to their very limit

Aerospace Health and Safety: Today and the Future Irina Mordukhovich,Mardi A. Crane-Godreau,Eileen Mcneely,Christopher Scheibler,2023-11-20 Aviation plays vital roles in commerce defense science and leisure travel Irrespective of the purpose of flight crew and passengers are challenged by exposure to a variety of environmental conditions that can differ widely from work and travel environments on the surface of the Earth With anticipated changes in aviation and space technology new challenges to health and safety of crew and passengers can be expected In this Research Topic we welcome contributions from those whose work and interests are relevant to the health and safety of crew and passengers This includes but is not limited to health and safety professionals FAA examiners corporate medical officers aerospace and occupational physicians physiologists military and scientific team members public health professionals as well as engineers who are tasked with crew and passenger health and safety design projects While 4 1 billion passengers fly on commercial airlines annually and this figure is even higher when taking into account privately owned aircraft and military flight for the most part aviation is safe Passengers do arrive at their destinations with little concern to their own well being and flight is generally well tolerated However older flyers people with diagnosed or undiagnosed preexisting disease and other vulnerable passengers such as young children and pregnant women may be at risk of complications and crew may be at special risk due to the frequency and duration of their many flight related exposures Health and safety issues for crew and passengers include but are not limited to potentially severe circadian rhythm disruption potential health effects of low level cosmic ionizing radiation exposure at altitude reduced oxygen delivery and tissue hypoxia at cabin pressurization cabin air contamination by engine gases toxic materials used in uniforms and some cabin seat materials occupational noise pesticides used for cabin disinsection lack of adequate crew rest on layovers or between flights cardiovascular demands of flight and effects of flight related dehydration the current absence of screening protocols especially in the context of a rising number of elderly and vulnerable flyers lack of healthy nutrition at airports and in flight availability of food and hydration as well as adequate cabin temperature under delay conditions effects of alcohol use on flight related physiological and behavioral health risks anxiety and psychological distress associated with air travel the effects of long haul or ultra long haul flights on thromboembolic events as well as smoking cessation efforts and related psychological outcomes job related stress and harassment among crew Cosmic ionizing and non ionizing radiation exposure have drawn attention as have historic exposures of crew and passengers to second hand cigarette smoke The threat of political and interpersonal violence and altercations involving aviation cannot be overlooked On board medical emergencies run a wide gamut and the capacity to respond becomes more problematic as the duration of flights becomes longer or in the case of flight over oceans and the poles In addition in flight and post flight embolisms and myocardial infarctions are more prevalent than might be expected We hence encourage manuscripts that address in flight medical response including the capabilities on different types of aircraft on potential interventions by crew and medical volunteers In addition aviation as a vector for the carriage of disease is a significant concern to public health and security of populations world wide and we welcome submissions regarding infectious disease epidemiology and medicine as it relates to air travel Insects and occasional unplanned travel by birds and rodents can present additional public health concerns We are approaching an era where space travel may soon be increasingly common Future flights for near Earth orbit by leisure travelers and as well as travel to the moon and Mars raise a host of new questions with health and safety implications What are the proposed health and safety accommodations going to be Who will be allowed to travel Perhaps the most interesting question is who will make the rules
