Macau's Languages in Society and Education Andrew J. Moody, 2021-03-18 This book examines the role of English within education and society in the quickly changing city of Macau Macau's multilingual language ecology offers the unique opportunity to examine language planning and policy issues within a small speech community The languages within the ecology include several Chinese varieties such as Cantonese Putonghua and Hokkien European languages like Portuguese and English and a number of Asian languages that include among others Burmese Filipino languages Japanese Timorese etc As the smallest city in South China's Pearl River Delta Macau has sought to maintain cultural and linguistic independence from its larger neighbours and independence has been built upon an historic commitment to multilingualism and cultural plurality As economic development and globalisation offer new opportunities to a growing middle class the sociolinguistics of a small society constrain and influence the language policies that the territory seeks to implement Macau s multilingual and pluralistic response to language needs within the territory echoes historical responses to similar challenges and suggests that small communities function sociolinguistically in ways that differ from larger communities of best practice the division of language teaching professionals on the basis of their categorization as native speakers or non native speakers continues to cascade throughout the academic literature It has become normative under the rhetorical guise of acting to correct prejudice and or discrimination to see native speakerism as having a single beneficiary the native speaker and a single victim the non native speaker However this unidirectional perspective fails to deal with the more veiled systems through which those labeled as native speakers and non native speakers are both cast as casualties of this questionable bifurcation This volume documents such complexities and aims to fill the void currently observable within mainstream academic literature in the teaching of both English and Japanese foreign language education By identifying how the construct of Japanese native speaker mirrors that of the native speaker of English the volume presents a revealing insight into language teaching in Japan Further taking a problem solving approach this volume explores possible grounds on which language teachers could be employed if native speakerism is rejected according to experts in the fields of intercultural communicative competence English as a Lingua Franca and World Englishes all of which aim to replace the native speaker model with something new Migration in a Globalizing World Adiku, Geraldine, Anamzoya, Alhassan Sulema, 2018-06-21

Migration has assumed growing significance in the global development agenda as its potential for economic and social development is increasingly acknowledged Within the Africa context perceptions of migration as a negative phenomenon have shifted to recognition of its central role to Africa s transformation Despite this shift emerging migration dynamics have not been adequately contextualized and conceptualized making it difficult to integrate migration into development planning processes This book attempts to fill the gaps in migration knowledge production particularly from the perspectives of researchers in the global south and more specifically from Ghana The chapters provide multi disciplinary perspectives in the contemporary migration landscape in Ghana and Africa Rather than focus on migration as a problem to be solved the chapters explore migration as an intrinsic part of the broader processes of structural change in Ghana which could create opportunities for development if properly harnessed This reader is an essential resource for migration and development researchers students policy makers practitioners and others interested in the field of development Fundamentals of
