Nursing At Mutare General Hospital:

African nurses and everyday work in twentieth-century Zimbabwe Clement Masakure, 2020-12-15 Informed by the memories of African nurses this book highlights the experiences of men and women who provided nursing services in Zimbabwe's hospitals in the twentieth century. It argues that in their subordinate positions and within their various capacities nursing assistants, nursing orderlies, medics and qualified nurses African women and men played a pivotal role in the provision of healthcare services to their fellow Africans. They transformed hospital spaces into their own, reshaped and reformulated indigenous as well as western nursing and biomedical practices. Through their work African nurses contributed to the development of the nation by being at the bedside, healing the sick and nursing the infirm. Ministry of Health and Child Welfare Training Programmes, Institutions and Addresses, 1994

Growing Up with HIV in Zimbabwe Ross Parsons, 2012 Zimbabwe stands at the epicentre of the global HIV epidemic. Families are severely depleted by death and migration. HIV infection is often lived in secrecy despite obvious physical manifestations. This study seeks to describe the specificity of the Zimbabwean context as it affects the lives of HIV positive children in the eastern town of Mutare at a time of severe crisis in the state marked by impoverishment, organised violence and mass death. Book jacket One day this will all be over Ross Parsons, 2012-05-13 Ross Parsons has been working with HIV positive children in Mutare since 2005. As a child psychotherapist, he was interested in exploring how a therapeutic group meeting regularly might offer a way of elaborating and meeting their needs. His account of these experiences is presented as a rare blend of anthropological and psychotherapeutic approaches to the study of children and he is candid about the close even intimate relationships that resulted. I have crossed the classical ethnographic and psychoanalytic boundary of the cool observer. The therapist while still awkwardly present has also become an advocate in pursuit of the ethnographic. The period of his research coincided with one of deep crisis in Zimbabwe's economy. Employment opportunities were few, public health and education services were in decay and the prospects were grim for those on the margins of society. In the course of my fieldwork I have attended too many funerals. In the absence of state support the poor look variously to international NGOs and to the church. Parsons offers telling insights into the crossroads of donated pharmaceuticals and Christian faith and is constantly alert to the place of traditional spirituality and ties of kinship. Independence is Not Only for One Sex Kathy Bond-Stewart, 1987 This book is the voice of women across the spectrum of Zimbabwean society. They all tell their stories. The interviews in this book were done after independence in 1983. The book is divided into three sections. In the first section eight women tell their stories. In the second section women talk about their experiences in different areas of work. The third section is about women in one of the most important areas of decision making: women councillors. Finally, there is a postscript about women in Zimbabwe seven years after independence. The Hospital and Health Services Review, 1984 The Zimbabwe Directory, 1983
