New Ways to Engage Parents Patricia Edwards, 2016 Just as populations change ideas about how to encourage and work with parents also need to evolve This practical resource by bestselling author Patricia Edwards provides school leaders and classroom teachers with new and creative ways in which to welcome encourage and involve parents Enacting these types of practices requires a special kind of commitment from teachers and school leaders which often coincides with a particular kind of mindset about families and one's responsibility to engage them Educators often develop this mindset as they deepen their understanding of families literacy language culture race class and themselves Edwards pulls these understandings together and presents them in a straightforward concise and easy to use guide that is perfect for professional learning communities and teacher preparation courses New Ways to Engage Parents is essential reading for all educators who care deeply about engaging a wide range of parents in today's schools It is my hope that this book inspires teachers to seek ways to make schools more equitable and caring spaces for all children From the Foreword by Catherine Compton Lilly University of Wisconsin Madison Long a leader in the field Professor Patricia Edwards reinforces the fact that education is a shared responsibility of home school and community She presents scores of practical ideas and resources to enable educators to involve all parents in their children's education Joyce L Epstein Johns Hopkins University Finally a book that brings partnering with parents into the 21st century This is a book teachers will want to keep at their fingertips Jeanne R Paratore Boston University Illinois Reading Council Journal, 2018

NWEA FAQ Northwest Evaluation Association, 2015 Northwest Evaluation Association NWEA conducts norming studies every several years to provide the best and most up to date information we can about student achievement and growth to better support educational decision making It is an important part of our commitment to our partners The most recent NWEA norms were released in July 2015 Just as we expect student performance to change with time norms of student performance will change correspondingly For 2015 several factors may have influenced how the US school age population performed on Measures of Academic Progress MAP assessments of language usage mathematics and reading over the 2011-12 2012-13 and 2013-14 school years Prominent among these possible factors are the introduction of Common Core instruction and Common Core versions of MAP But as with all empirical studies changes in scope and data necessitated changes in statistical design and analyses The methodological improvements introduced in the 2015 norms have resulted in a set of norms that are more representative of the US school age population than previous NWEA norms Methodological changes involved differences in the way post stratification weights were developed and the way growth was modeled Details of these changes are addressed more thoroughly in the 2015 Norms Study As a result of the improved methodology partners can expect some differences from previous norms as explained below

2011 Normative Data Northwest Evaluation Association, 2017 Having the right data is a key component of individualizing instruction for each child The Northwest Evaluation Association NWEA has the ability to measure a student's achievement and academic growth independent of grade across time. From the insight provided with Measures of Academic Progress (MAP) and its reports, educators can compare class or grade level performance to students from a wide variety of schools across the country. Status norms provide a starting point for educators to review data and help them gain an understanding of each child's current academic level where they need focused instruction and the extent of their progress. The 2011 NWEA RIT Scale Norms Study provides growth and status norms for all five RIT scales: Reading Language Usage, Mathematics General Science, and Science Concepts and Processes. EasyCBM Norms. 2014 Edition. Technical Report #1409 Jessica L. Saven, Gerald Tindal, P. Shawn Irvin, Dan Farley, Julie Alonzo, 2014. Previous norms for the easyCBM assessment system were computed using scores from all students who took each measure for every grade and benchmark season: fall, winter, and spring. During the 2013-14 school year, new national norms were developed to more accurately proportionately represent reading and mathematics performance by two variables: region and student demographic. Five hundred students were proportionately and randomly sampled from each of four regions of the country: Midwest, West, Northeast, and Southeast. Percentiles by region are displayed in tables at the top of each page (pp. 15-170) for every season, grade, and measure available on easyCBM. To assist in navigating through all of the tables in the document, each page contains a heading at the top right listing the season, grade, and measure. In addition, the index of all measures found on pages 6-7 serves as a guide through the document. A set of norms using a stratified random sample of students by gender and ethnicity (race: white female, white male, non-white female, non-white male) was also developed. Race and ethnicity were aggregated as the count of students with complete data for both categories was insufficient for disaggregation. In this process, Hispanic students were counted as non-white even when lacking a race designation other than white. Ethnicity/race codes from the most recent Common Core Data published by the National Center on Education Statistics (2010-11) were used in this process. Like the norms developed by region, these norms based on gender and ethnicity/race are displayed in tables at the bottom of each page by season, grade, and measure. In order to provide a deeper look at scores for every region and/or gender/ethnicity/race included in the norming process, tables providing summary statistics (mean and standard deviation) for each region and each demographic group included in the stratified random samples used to generate norms are included at the center of each page. All the literacy norms included in this document were calculated based on score values present in 2012-2013. The mathematics measures changed for 2013-2014, so the norms for both the CCSS (Common Core State Standards) and NCTM (National Council of Teachers of Mathematics) aligned math measures were calculated using 2013-2014 data. For those who seek a more detailed explanation of how all norms were calculated, a detailed explanation is included in a technical report along with the norm summary tables on pages 8-14. This document serves as an extension of the summary tables presented in that section.
