Lattimore, Beth M. Huebner, Faye S. Taxman, 2020-11-10 This volume addresses major issues and research in corrections and sentencing with the goal of using previous research and findings as a platform for recommendations about future research evaluation and policy The last several decades witnessed major policy changes in sentencing and corrections in the United States as well as considerable research to identify the most effective strategies for addressing criminal behavior These efforts included changes in sentencing that eliminated parole and imposed draconian sentences for violent and drug crimes The federal government followed by most states implemented sentencing guidelines that greatly reduced the discretion of the courts to impose sentences The results were a multifold increase in the numbers of individuals in jails and prisons and on community supervision increases that have only recently crested There were also efforts to engage prosecutors and the courts in diversion and oversight including the development of prosecutorial diversion programs as well as a variety of specialty courts Penal reform has included efforts to understand the transitions from prison to the community including federal led efforts focused on reentry programming Community corrections reforms have ranged from increased surveillance through drug testing electronic monitoring and in some cases judicial oversight to rehabilitative efforts driven by risk and needs assessment More recently the focus has included pretrial reform to reduce the number of people held in jail pending trial efforts that have brought attention to the use of bail and its disproportionate impact on people of color and the poor This collection of chapters from leading researchers addresses a wide array of the latest research in the field A unique approach featuring responses to the original essays by active researchers spurs discussion and provides a foundation for developing directions for future research and policymaking New Frontiers in Offender Treatment Elizabeth L. Jeglic, Cynthia Calkins, 2018-11-16 This book reviews how new and promising evidence based interventions are being used with those involved in the criminal justice system While there has been an increased emphasis on evidence based practice within forensic treatment there remains a disjoint between what we know works and adapting these interventions to those involved in the criminal justice system This book seeks to bridge that gap by providing an overview of what we know works and how that information has been translated into offender treatment In addition it highlights avenues where additional research is needed This book is comprised of three parts In the first part current models of correctional treatment including the Risk Needs Responsivity Model The Good Lives Model and Cognitive Behavioral Models are presented In the second part the chapters address clinical issues such as the therapeutic alliance clinician factors and diversity related issues that impact treatment outcome In the third and final part of the book adaptations of innovative and cutting edge evidence based treatments such as Dialectical Behavior Therapy Trauma Informed Care Mindfulness Motivational Interviewing Assertive Community Treatment Multisystemic Treatment New frontiers in Intimate Partner Violence treatment and the current research on the treatment of those with psychopathy are presented Research supporting these treatment approaches targeting areas such as self management psychological well being treatment engagement and retention and their relationship to recidivism will be reviewed while their adaptation for use with forensic populations is discussed The book concludes with the editors summary of the findings and a discussion of the future of evidence based interventions within the field of forensic psychology A Brief Introduction to Corrections Robert D.
