8 pages | 1758 words

My journey into the nursing field started long before going to nursing school and entering the field. To start, I was only nineteen years old when I became a correctional officer in 1987. I had completed an associate degree, was living on my own at the time, and was seeking a possible career choice. At first, I noticed my fascination towards at the time what was called the "Criminally Insane." I spent a few years working with these particular inmates and later realizing that even though I experienced things that most never will being in the prison system it was time to move on. I completed a bachelor's degree in education in 1993 with a specialization in behavioral management and Emotionally Handicapped. Again, working in a psychological field, I seemed to be drawn to this particular setting. Ten years passed but I felt it was a struggle surviving financially especially after having my son in 1994. I've never been one to stagnate, so I began searching for a way to be my own boss. For a few years I drove a semi-trailer truck in Florida. I did my own accounting books, hired my own help and financed everything myself. I subcontracted for a large company but realized that even though I enjoyed the financial success and freedom it brought, eventually I would physically "look" like most truck drivers do after several years of hard physical labor. Oddly enough, it was the break I took from school that motivated me to go back. I needed a career that was financially stable and would always have positions to fill. I initially considered to obtain a masters in school counseling and guidance but realized that there was much more opportunity and financial stability in nursing. I completed an Associates in Science in Nursing program at Miami Dade College and it has been a great experience over the past almost thirteen years for me. I started on the floor like most in Telemetry, Med. Surge, Orthopedics, Infectious Wound Care and finally what I do now, Forensic Psychiatric Nursing. I have been a charge nurse supervising several nurses and caring for a 1,500-inmate population in a county jail. Also, I had the opportunity to be a Director of Nursing in a large prison with almost 2,000 inmates. Goals The Bachelor's in Science in Nursing (BSN) program will now be my second completed bachelor's and the motivation I need to move to the next level of my career. I have not decided whether to follow a path towards being a Psychiatric Nurse Practitioner or a path in Health Administration. I feel through my past experiences that I will make a good decision between the two. Personally, I continue to travel the world with my wife and appreciate how my nursing career has enabled us to do so. Financially, I continue to invest and own my present home that I plan to stay in at least until retirement. I plan to finish my career in nursing or in health administration within the next 5 years. I can guarantee, God willing, I will retire in thirteen more years...
