Essen,

Trinken und Demenz Lee Martin, 2021-04-26 Demenzfreundliche Ernährung und Mahlzeitengestaltung Dieses Fachbuch für Pflegekräfte und Care-Gastronomiefachberufe diskutiert und zeigt, wie man die Lebensaktivität Essen und Trinken zu einem wichtigen Element personenzentrierter Pflege machen kann. Dabei beschreibt der erfahrene Ernährungstherapeut Lee Martin, wie mit einfachen und preiswerten Mitteln die Fähigkeit, sich selbstständig zu ernähren, gefördert und erhalten werden kann. Aufgrund der sich verringernden kognitiven und exekutiven Funktionen bei Menschen mit Demenz verändern sich deren Ernährungsfähigkeiten, was zu Mangelernährung, Sarkopenie sowie Frailty-Vorschub leisten kann. Beeinträchtigte Ernährungsfähigkeiten können darüber hinaus Gefühle von Machtlosigkeit und sozialer Isolation verstärken. Das forschungsbasierte Praxishandbuch von Lee Martin veranschaulicht, wie man Mahlzeitsituationen nutzen kann, um in verschiedenen Situationen und Settings der Altenpflege und Care-Gastronomie die Nahrungsaufnahme zu verbessern, den Nährstoffbedarf zu decken, Sozialkontakte zu erleichtern und den Genuss am Essen zu fördern. Das Praxishandbuch für eine demenzfreundliche Ernährung erklärt die physiologischen Grundlagen von Essen, Trinken und Nahrungsaufnahme, zeigt, wie man eine behagliche und freundliche Umgebung für Essen und Trinken schafft, beschreibt, wie man gezielt Essgeschirr und Hilfsmittel zur Nahrungsaufnahme einsetzt, erläutert, wie man professionell mit Kau- und Schluckstörungen umgeht. Food Systems, Health, and Well-being Virginie Zoumenou, 2024-09-28 While the importance of food to health and well-being is clear, the specific ways in which food systems contribute to individual and community health are not well understood. This is a complex issue which requires improving food systems as well as changing mindsets and behaviors of individuals within the food system. Many of the food-related health problems in the US disproportionately affect children, women, ethnic minorities, and low-income people. Addressing these problems requires that we understand more about the processes of institutional change, structural conditions, perceptions, and decision-making processes. The environment itself determines much of what individuals can draw from it. Community norms may dictate who has access to food assistance; engaged communities may provide more food assistance and may make food resources more easily accessible for the poor. In addition, consumer and producer attitudes and interests may conflict over some issues surrounding sustainability and health. The present volume focuses on food production, distribution, and consumption and their effects on individual health. The text is divided into three parts. Part One focuses on the relationship between food systems, families, health, sociodemographic, and environmental factors. Part Two explores the relationship between food systems, food advertisements, and community engagement, and Part Three discusses current research and interventions toward a more equitable food system. Comprehensive Lactation Consultant Exam Review Linda J.
