Aphrodisiacs Peter V. Taberner, 2012-12-06 The planning and writing of this book has taken rather longer than I had originally intended what began as a modest literary project for two second year medical students has expanded over eight years to become a complete book The subject matter lent itself all too easily to a sensationalist approach yet on the other hand a strictly scientific approach would probably have resulted in a dull dry text of little interest to the general reader I have therefore attempted to bridge the gap and make the book intelligible and entertaining to the non specialist but at the same time ensuring that it is factually correct and adequately researched for the scientist or clinician I have always been impressed by Sir J G Frazer s introduction to his classic book The Golden Bough in which he apologizes for the fact that an article originally intended merely to explain the rules of succession to the priesthood of Diana at Aricia had expanded over a period of thirty years to twelve volumes The present work cannot pretend to such heady levels of academic excellence

Indirection in Morrison, Ní Dhuibhne, Hurston, and Lavin Jacqueline Fulmer, 2013-04-28 Focusing on the lineage of pivotal African American and Irish women writers Jacqueline Fulmer argues that these authors often employ strategies of indirection via folkloric expression when exploring unpopular topics This strategy holds the attention of readers who would otherwise reject the subject matter Fulmer traces the line of descent from Mary Lavin to Ní Dhuibhne and from Zora Neale Hurston to Toni Morrison showing how obstacles to free expression though varying from those Lavin and Hurston faced are still encountered by Morrison and Ní Dhuibhne The basis for comparing these authors lies in the strategies of indirection they use as influenced by folklore The folkloric characters these authors depict wild denizens of the Otherworld and wise women of various traditions help their creators insert controversy into fiction in ways that charm rather than alienate readers Forms of rhetorical indirection that appear in the context of folklore such as signifying practices masking sly civility and the grotesque or bizarre come out of the mouths and actions of these writers magical and magisterial characters Old traditions can offer new ways of discussing issues such as sexual expression religious beliefs or issues of reproduction As differences between times and cultures affect what can and cannot be said folkloric indirection may open up a vista to discourses of which we as readers may not even be aware Finally the folk women of Morrison Ní Dhuibhne Hurston and Lavin open up new points of entry to the discussion of fiction rhetoric censorship and folklore
