Northampton State Hospital J. Michael Moore, Anna Schuleit Haber, 2014 Northampton State Hospital established in 1856 was built with the optimistic spirit of humanitarian reform For many years it was run by Dr Pliny Earle a champion of treatment that combined individualized care with manual labor religious worship recreation and amusement This vision was overwhelmed as the hospital was called upon to care for ever larger numbers of people with varying needs By the mid 20th century the hospital was an isolated small city with hundreds of employees caring for more than 2 000 patients in overcrowded and inadequate conditions It became a nationally important center of political and legal struggle over the role of state hospitals in the care of the mentally ill After being gradually phased out the hospital was closed in 1993 and the buildings though listed in the National Register of Historic Places were demolished in 2006 This volume brings to life the 135 year story of Northampton State Hospital through beautiful and haunting photographs drawn from the collections of Historic Northampton the city's local history museum

Pet Projects Elizabeth Young, 2019-12-17 In Pet Projects Elizabeth Young joins an analysis of the representation of animals in nineteenth century fiction taxidermy and the visual arts with a first person reflection on her own scholarly journey Centering on Margaret Marshall Saunders a Canadian woman writer once famous for her animal novels and incorporating Young's own experience of a beloved animal's illness this study highlights the personal and intellectual stakes of a pet project of cultural criticism Young assembles a broad archive of materials beginning with Saunders's novels and widening outward to include fiction nonfiction photography and taxidermy She coins the term first dog voice to describe the narrative technique of novels such as Saunders's Beautiful Joe written in the first person from the perspective of an animal She connects this voice to contemporary political issues revealing how animal fiction such as Saunders's reanimates nineteenth century writing about both feminism and slavery Highlighting the prominence of taxidermy in the late nineteenth century she suggests that Saunders transforms taxidermic techniques in surprising ways that provide new forms of authority for women Young adapts

Freud to analyze literary representations of mourning by and for animals and she examines how Canadian writers including Saunders use animals to explore race ethnicity and national identity Her wide ranging investigation incorporates twenty first as well as nineteenth century works of literature and culture including recent art using taxidermy and contemporary film Throughout she reflects on the tools she uses to craft her analyses examining the state of scholarly fields from feminist criticism to animal studies With a lively first person voice that highlights experiences usually concealed in academic studies by scholarly discourse such as detours zigzags roadblocks and personal experience this unique and innovative book will delight animal enthusiasts and academics in the fields of animal studies gender studies American studies and Canadian studies

Annual Report of the Trustees of the Northampton Lunatic Hospital for the Year Ending ... , 1907 Mental institutions in America Gerald N. Grob, Mental Institutions in America Social Policy to 1875 examines how American society responded to complex problems arising out of mental illness in the nineteenth century All societies have had to confront sickness disease and dependency and have developed their own ways of dealing with these phenomena The mental hospital became the characteristic institution charged with the responsibility of providing care and treatment for individuals seemingly incapable of caring for themselves during protracted periods of incapacitation The services rendered by the hospital were of benefit not merely to the afflicted individual but to the community Such an institution embodied a series of moral imperatives by providing humane and scientific treatment of disabled individuals many of whose families were unable to care for them at home or to pay the high costs of private institutional care Yet the mental hospital has always been more than simply an institution that offered care and treatment for the sick and disabled Its structure and functions have usually been linked with a variety of external economic political social and intellectual forces if only because the way in which a society handled problems of disease and dependency was partly governed by its social structure and values The definition of disease the criteria for institutionalization the financial and administrative structures governing hospitals the nature of the decision making process differential care and treatment of various socio economic groups were issues that transcended strictly medical and scientific considerations Mental Institutions in America attempts to interpret the mental hospital as a social as well as a medical institution and to illuminate the evolution of policy toward dependent groups such as the mentally ill This classic text brilliantly studies the past in depth and on its own terms Nowhere to Go E. Fuller Torrey, 2025-03-20 This open access book attempts to answer the question Why are so many severely mentally ill people homeless or incarcerated Updated since its original 1988 release this book tracks the history of this question in the United States The answer begins in 1955 when the United States deinstitutionalized the 559 000 patients who were in state mental hospitals Today only 35 000 remain In 1963 Congress funded President Kennedy's proposed federally funded Community Mental Health Centers CMHCs whose main purpose was to provide care for the patients being released from the hospitals However most of the CMHCs never did so but rather became counseling centers for individuals with less serious mental illnesses The lack of psychiatric aftercare for severely mentally ill individuals resulted in more than 200 000 of them who are homeless and more than 250 000 others who are in jails and prisons This story also includes little known details such as the role played by conscientious objectors who worked in the state hospitals during WWII Rosemary Kennedy's psychosis the influence of the conservative John Birch society on Presidents Nixon and Reagan and mental health myths incorrectly attributed to Reagan Finally the book discusses what needs to be done to improve the mental illness treatment system This is an ideal guide for psychiatrists psychologists and members of the public who are concerned about homelessness Public Documents of Massachusetts Massachusetts, 1907 Abuse of Older Persons United States. Overmyer, 2024-07-02 Was it a mercy killing Was it an accident Was it murder Read the full account of the death of baby Lawrence Noxon and subsequent arrest trial and conviction that divided a 1940s small town Publishers Weekly calls it an enlightening and discomfiting account of a horrific crime With no witnesses and destroyed evidence questions still surround the mysterious death of baby Lawrence Noxon This the account of the 1940s murder case arrest trial and conviction of John Noxon as well as a story of changing city and state It s not every day that a prominent citizen a highly successful lawyer no less is arrested for murder The case itself drew in newspaper readers from coast to coast and Lawrence s death was often characterized as a mercy killing at a time when euthanasia societies were publicly advocating for the selection out of mental defectives from American society Noxon consistently maintained the electrocution was accidental although admittedly due to his own negligence but the prosecution was pushing for the death penalty Based on scientific or forensic evidence they recreated some of the lost evidence and called upon university medical faculty chemists and electrical engineers to show the death could not have been an accident The defense of course had its own cadre of witnesses from those disciplines to testify just the opposite Despite the complicated technicalities of the evidence the jury deliberated only about five hours before finding Noxon guilty of first degree murder which at the time carried an automatic death penalty Annual Report Massachusetts.
