Valedictory Address Delivered Before the Graduating Class of the Pennsylvania College of Dental Surgery Jacob Lewis Suesserott, 2018-09-10 Excerpt from Valedictory Address Delivered Before the Graduating Class of the Pennsylvania College of Dental Surgery Session 1861 62 The question which every young man should propose to himself when about to enter upon life is what can I do In this world of activity and energy this world of many wants and many woes the thought of yielding in any degree to sluggishness or a desire for repose dare not be entertained by him but if he has not a settled determination to do all that he can coupled with willingness to act it out he will ever appear a drone in society Its stirring activity should ever put him upon the alert lest he may not be able to keep step with its progress while his own wants and the wants of the world around him if he will be an attentive listener will ever urge him to earnest untiring exertion and furnish Him with constant incentives to the fulfillment of the noblest of all purposes devotion to the cause of humanity and the elevation of man In this lies the secret of all true greatness and he who rightly considers his relations to the present and the future his obligations to himself and to those with whom he is associated will never need to be reminded that his great work in this world to which all others should be subsidiary is to be useful in any and every way to man About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
