Educating the next generation of scientists Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Committee of Public Accounts, 2011-01-20 A strong supply of people with science technology engineering and maths skills is important for the UK to compete internationally The starting point is a good education for children and young people in science and maths The numbers studying separate GCSE biology chemistry and physics known as Triple Science when studied together have risen by almost 150% between 2004 05 and 2009 10 Attainment has also improved as take up has increased Nevertheless there is a risk that this progress will not be maintained There are still not enough teachers with strong subject knowledge in science and maths entering the profession In 2009 10 there were over 115 000 entries to GCSE biology 113 000 to chemistry and 112 000 to physics Another 40 000 pupils entered A level chemistry and almost 70 000 A level maths If the higher numbers of pupils taking science and maths are to achieve good results they need to be taught by teachers with the specialist knowledge to teach these subjects well Teaching environments are also vitally important in improving take up and achievement in science but there is evidence that science facilities in many schools are unsatisfactory and even unsafe Furthermore in some schools advice and guidance on science and maths related careers is poor The Department must approach the challenge of improving school science and maths through a coherent system wide strategy rather than as a number of initiatives operating in isolation As more autonomy is given to schools the Department must develop an accountability framework that gives schools strong incentives to put all key elements in place for the benefit of their pupils

Production Chemicals for the Oil and Gas Industry, Second Edition Malcolm A. Kelland, 2014-03-13 Production chemistry issues result from changes in well stream fluids both liquid and gaseous during processing Since crude oil production is characterized by variable production rates and unpredictable changes to the nature of the produced fluids it is essential for production chemists to have a range of chemical additives available for rectifying issues that would not otherwise be fully resolved Modern production methods the need to upgrade crude oils of variable quality and environmental constraints demand chemical solutions Thus oilfield production chemicals are necessary to overcome or minimize the effects of the production chemistry problems Production Chemicals for the Oil and Gas Industry Second Edition discusses a wide variety of production chemicals used by the oil and gas industry for down hole and topside applications both onshore and offshore Incorporating the large amount of research and applications since the first edition this new edition reviews all past and present classes of production chemicals providing numerous difficult to obtain references especially SPE papers and patents Unlike other texts that focus on how products perform in the field this book focuses on the specific structures of chemicals that are known to deliver the required or desired performance information that is very useful for research and development

Each updated chapter begins by introducing a problem such as scale or corrosion for which there is a production chemical. The author then briefly discusses all chemical and nonchemical methods to treat the problem and provides in depth descriptions of the structural classes of relevant production chemicals. He also mentions when available the environmental properties of chemicals and whether the chemical or technique has been successfully used in the field. This edition includes two new chapters and nearly 50 percent more references.
