Raw Deal Steven Hill, 2015-10-20 What s going to happen to my job

That's what an increasing number of anxious Americans are asking themselves: The US workforce, which has been one of the most productive and wealthiest in the world, is undergoing an alarming transformation. Increasing numbers of workers find themselves on shaky ground, turned into freelancers, temps, and contractors. Even many full-time and professional jobs are experiencing this precarious shift. Within a decade, a near majority of the 145 million employed Americans will be impacted. Add to that the steamroller of automation, robots, and artificial intelligence already replacing millions of workers and projected to obsolesce millions more, and the jobs picture starts looking grim. Now a weird yet historic mash-up of Silicon Valley technology and Wall Street greed is thrusting upon us the latest economic fraud: the so-called sharing economy, with companies like Uber, Airbnb, and TaskRabbit allegedly liberating workers to become independent and their own CEOs hiring themselves out for ever smaller jobs and wages while the companies profit. But this share-the-crumbs economy is just the tip of a looming iceberg that the middle class is drifting toward. Raw Deal: How the Uber Economy and Runaway Capitalism Are Screwing American Workers by veteran journalist Steven Hill is an exposé that challenges conventional thinking and the hype celebrating this new economy by showing why the vision of the techno-sapien leaders and their Ayn Rand libertarianism is a dead end. In Raw Deal, Steven Hill proposes pragmatic policy solutions to transform the US economy and its safety net and social contract, launching a new kind of deal to restore power back into the hands of American workers.

Transnational Families, Migration and the Circulation of Care by Loretta Baldassar and Laura Merla (2013-09-11) Without denying the difficulties that confront migrants and their distant kin, this volume highlights the agency of family members in transnational processes of care in an effort to acknowledge the transnational family as an increasingly common family form and to question the predominantly negative conceptualisations of this type of family. It re-conceptualises transnational care as a set of activities that circulates between home and host countries across generations and fluctuates over the life course, going beyond a focus on mother-child relationships to include multidirectional exchanges across generations and between genders. It highlights in particular how the sense of belonging in transnational families is sustained by the reciprocal though uneven exchange of caregiving, which binds members together in intergenerational networks of reciprocity and obligation, love and trust that are simultaneously fraught with tension, contest, and relations of unequal power. The chapters that make up this volume cover a rich array of ethnographic case studies, including analyses of transnational families who circulate care between developing nations in Africa, Latin America, and Asia to wealthier nations in North America, Europe, and Australia. There are also examples of intra and extra-European, Australian and North American migration which involve the mobility of both the unskilled and working class as well as the skilled middle and aspirational classes.

Foodies Josee Johnston, Shyon Baumann, 2014-12-19 This important cultural analysis tells two stories about food. The first depicts good food as democratic. Foodies frequent hole-in-the-wall ethnic eateries, appreciate the pie found in working-class truck stops, and reject the snobbery of fancy French restaurants with formal table service. The second story describes how food operates as a source of status and distinction for economic and cultural elites, indirectly maintaining and reproducing social inequality. While the first storyline insists that anybody can be a foodie, the second asks foodies to look in the mirror and think about their relative social and economic privilege. By simultaneously considering both of these stories and studying how they operate in tension, a delicious sociology of food becomes available, perfect for teaching a broad range of cultural sociology courses.

Mapping ASEAN David Carden, 2019-09-10 For half a century, ten dynamic nations in Southeast Asia have been implementing a shared vision of economic growth, sustainable development, and cultural progress. Today, the economies of those nations are linked inextricably with the future of greater Asia, as well as with the United States and the other Western countries. With authoritarianism and protectionism on the rise around the world and the catastrophic effects of global warming making action urgent, the nations that form the Association of Southeast Asian Nations are more relevant and under greater political and social stress than ever. In these illuminating pages, David Carden, the first American resident ambassador to ASEAN, paints a vivid portrait of the regional and global cooperation required to meet today and tomorrow's interconnected future. Carden takes us behind the scenes as the leaders of these ten nations work to prepare their countries and their region for the 21st century. Carden persuasively argues that the unfolding story of the ASEAN nations is a story for the entire world, that we are all increasingly interdependent and confronted with the existential need to solve the same set of challenges.

Asia in International Relations Pinar Bilgin, L.H.M. Ling, 2017-02-01 Asia in International Relations decolonizes conventional understandings and representations of Asia in International Relations (IR). This book opens by including all those geographical and cultural linkages that constitute Asia today but are generally ignored by mainstream IR. Covering the Indian subcontinent, Turkey, the Mediterranean, Iran, the Arab world, Ethiopia, and Central and Northeast Southeast Asia, the volume draws on rich literatures to develop our understanding of power relations in the world's largest continent. Contributors de-colonize, de-imperialize, and de-Cold War the region to articulate an alternative narrative about Asia, world politics, and IR. This approach reframes old problems in new ways, with the possibility of transforming them rather than recycling the same old approaches with the same old intractable outcomes.

The Engineer, 2016 The Political Economy of City Branding Ari-Veikko Anttiroiko, 2014-02-24 Globalization affects urban communities in many ways. One of its manifestations is increased intercity competition, which compels cities to increase their attractiveness in terms of capital, entrepreneurship, information expertise, and consumption. This competition takes place in an asymmetric field, with cities trying to find the best possible ways of using their natural and created assets, the latter including a naturally evolving reputation or consciously developed competitive identity or brand. The Political Economy of City Branding discusses this phenomenon from the perspective of numerous post industrial cities in North America Europe East Asia and Australasia Special attention is given to local economic development policy and industrial profiling and global city rankings are used to provide empirical evidence for cities characteristics and positions in the global urban hierarchy On top of this social and urban challenges such as creative class struggle are also discussed The core message of the book is that cities should apply the tools of city branding in their industrial promotion and specialization but at the same time take into account the special nature of their urban communities and be open and inclusive in their brand policies in order to ensure optimal results This book will be of interest to scholars and practitioners working in the areas of local economic development urban planning public management and branding
