Norbert Wiener 1894-1964 Pesi R. Masani, 2012-12-06 Norbert Wiener was an American mathematician and philosopher. He was a professor of mathematics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology MIT. A child prodigy, Wiener later became an early researcher in stochastic and mathematical noise processes contributing work relevant to electronic engineering, electronic communication and control systems. Wiener is considered the originator of cybernetics, a formalization of the notion of feedback with implications for engineering systems, control, computer science, biology, neuroscience, philosophy, and the organization of society. Wiener thought on a grand scale and stressed the adaptation of technical concepts from pure mathematics and electrical engineering outside their technical contexts. Masani's interesting and thoughtful book analyses both Wiener's mathematical and his nonmathematical ideas in sympathetic and sensitive detail. Readers will find much to appreciate in this book in addition to the discussion of Wiener's technical research. NTZ-Communications Journal

Bureau of Reclamation, 1968 Weak Interactions and Higher Symmetries Paul Urban, 2012-12-06 Weak interactions and higher symmetries are nowadays of special importance for elementary particles theory. Lately both theoretical and experimental physicists became more and more interested in the subject. Because of the complicated subject and the scarce available literature, proper introductions in the subject are tiresome. The mathematical background such as higher Algebra and Group theory etc. cannot be applied immediately in all cases. The third Schladming University Courses on the above subject belong to this category. The present first supplement volume of Acta Physica Austriaca contains all lectures with literature references giving not only a review of the fundamentals but also discussing recent research work. I sincerely hope that the publication will find interested readers. In the last years it became customary in physics and mathematics to arrange summer schools on subjects which allow the experienced as well as the young scientist to get quickly acquainted with special modern fields. Discussions and private contacts make it possible for participants to touch quickly the peripheries of the subject in question and new research work will be stimulated which otherwise could not be expected.
