Race, Nation, and Reform Ideology in Winnipeg, 1880s-1920s: Kurt Korieski, 2015-06-09 During the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, a host of journalists, ministers, medical doctors, businessmen, lawyers, labor leaders, politicians, and others called for an assault on poverty slums disreputable boarding houses alcoholism prostitution sweatshop conditions inadequate educational facilities and other social evils Although they represented an array of political positions and advocated a range of strategies to deal with what they deemed problems historians have come to term this impulse urban reform or the urban reform movement This book considers the history of reform ideology in Canada It does so by considering four leading reformers living in what might be described as the most Canadian of Canadian cities Winnipeg Manitoba While the book engages in discussions debates surrounding the particular individuals it considers its more general argument is that to understand the history of reform in Canada requires viewing reformers as simultaneously experiencing and responding to two basic phenomena simultaneously It requires understanding them as confronting the polarizing tendencies exploitation and sometimes grinding poverty that was central to the economic order they often unwittingly helped to impose in northern North America It also however requires seeing them as fundamentally shaped by the process and legacy of the dispossession of Aboriginal peoples and the changing nature of Aboriginal settler relations that were also central to the development of Canada
