Palmer, 2021-10-19 Nurse Memoirs from the Great War in Britain France and Germany examines an understudied corpus of memoirs in English French and German stemming from the unprecedented involvement of women in the war effort Jerry Palmer considers the memoirs in relationship to public opinion collective memory and other women s writing about the war Through close readings of the memoirs and their contexts the book identifies themes present in the texts and considers the nurse memoir as rhetoric examining to what extent the texts are promoting or countering arguments in the public sphere about their involvement or more widely about women s position in society Palmer explores the multiple contexts related to the nurse memoirs including public response to volunteer wartime nursing the organisation of the military health services of the three nations and their conduct in the war and changes in the post war organization of public health services and the professionalization of nursing      British Army Veterans' Experiences of the Transition into Civilian Life Emma Armstrong, 2025-02-04 Over the last few decades the academic and public gaze has increasingly focused on military veterans The extant literature has documented a wealth of problems that emerge once a service leaver enters civilian life including homelessness mental health issues criminality and substance misuse Accordingly the intention to improve the wellbeing of veterans in the UK has certainly been evident within various government initiated strategies However most scholarly attention has concentrated on the few veterans who encounter these extreme transitions This book sheds light on the vast majority who are deemed to have an unproblematic transition on account of their employment status and lack of serious social or health issues by drawing on data from 58 interviews with Army veterans spouses of Army veterans and charity workers By mapping participants trajectory from pre military life to years after service a holistic theorisation of the transition is provided using the tenets of ultra realism It shows that for most merely being in employment was not an accurate measure of success Instead entrance to the civilian job market was characterised by precarity and intense competition between employees This served as a dichotomy to the work environment veterans were familiar with and caused tension between the subject and the ideology they were assimilated to In putting forward this argument this book advances the existing ultra realist theoretical framework and veteran research in an empirically informed manner      A National Trauma Care System National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Health and Medicine Division, Board on the Health of Select Populations, Board on Health Sciences Policy, Committee on Military Trauma Care's Learning Health System and Its Translation to the Civilian Sector, 2016-09-12 Advances in trauma care have accelerated over the past decade spurred by the significant burden of injury from the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq Between 2005 and 2013 the case fatality rate for United States service members injured in Afghanistan decreased by nearly 50 percent despite an increase in the severity of injury among U S troops during the same period of time But as the war in Afghanistan ends knowledge and advances in trauma care developed by the Department of Defense DoD over the past decade from experiences in Afghanistan and Iraq may be lost This would have implications for the quality of trauma care both within the DoD and in the civilian setting where adoption of military advances in trauma care has become increasingly common and necessary to improve the response to multiple civilian casualty events Intentional steps to codify and harvest the lessons learned within the military's trauma system are needed to ensure a ready military medical force for future combat and to prevent death from survivable injuries in both military and civilian systems This will require partnership across military and civilian sectors and a sustained commitment from trauma system leaders at all levels to assure that the necessary knowledge and tools are not lost A National Trauma Care System defines the components of a learning health system necessary to enable continued improvement in trauma care in both the civilian and the military sectors This report provides recommendations to ensure that lessons learned over the past decade from the military's experiences in Afghanistan and Iraq are sustained and built upon for future combat operations and translated into the U S civilian system      Critical Care Nursing in Resource Limited Environments Chris Carter, 2019-06-05 All hospitals have critically ill patients and their management depends upon the resources available In many low income countries critically ill patients may be admitted to a critical care unit however many are nursed on wards due to a lack of critical care beds or simply die before they reach the hospital This book provides guidance on the unique situations for nurses working in these challenging environments while considering ethical decision making providing appropriate services and the types of patients admitted Topics covered include working in a resource limited environment cultural awareness and international agendas provision and access to healthcare services ethical considerations in the context of resource limited environments best practice and knowledge regarding rehabilitation pain management managing a major incident relevant research concerning resource limited environments Critical Care Nursing in Resource Limited Environments prepares readers to consider how best to utilise their skills and deliver safe patient care within a resource limited context Each easy to read chapter provides core knowledge and relevant research as well as useful ideas and solutions with further reading sections to signpost readers to key international resources This text provides practical ideas for nurses working in critical care and defence nursing and acute areas in resource limited environments It can also be used to support educational courses and pre deployment training for nurses hoping to work in Global Health

Big Data-Enabled Nursing Connie W. Delaney, Charlotte A. Weaver, Judith J. Warren, Thomas R. Clancy, Roy L. Simpson, 2017-11-02 Historically nursing in all of its missions of research scholarship education and practice has not had access to large patient databases Nursing consequently adopted qualitative methodologies with small sample sizes clinical trials and lab research Historically large data methods were limited to traditional biostatistical analyses In the United States large payer data has been amassed and structures organizations have been created to welcome scientists to explore these large data to advance knowledge discovery Health systems electronic health records EHRs have now matured to generate massive databases with longitudinal trending This text reflects how the learning health system infrastructure is maturing and being advanced by health information exchanges HIEs with multiple organizations blending their data or enabling distributed computing It educates the readers on the evolution of knowledge discovery methods that span qualitative as well as quantitative data mining including the expanse of data visualization capacities are enabling sophisticated discovery New opportunities for nursing and call for new skills in research methodologies are being further enabled by new partnerships spanning all sectors      Global Partnerships and Neocolonialism Aram Ziai, Praveen Jha, Jule Lümmer, 2025-06-20 This open access book points at some of the problematic aspects of international partnerships that continue to be shaped by colonialism A global partnership for sustainable development is the 17th of the Sustainable Development Goals SDGs However research points to shortcomings and problematic aspects of international partnerships that have been shaped by colonialism and continue to reflect unequal power relations between the global North and South Hence the chapters of this edited volume explore how global partnerships can be established in a neocolonial environment in the fields of development cooperation the global economy and knowledge production The contributions were written by members of the Global Partnership Network GPN one of the Centres of Excellence for Exchange and Development funded by the German Ministry for Development Cooperation which has been working intensively and critically on the topic of partnerships and North South relations over the past four years
