IT Assets	Nature of the Competitive Action
Integrated database of current flights, routes and pricing offered by multiple airlines Desktop-based software that allowed travel agents to dial-in to the system to search for available flights and prices and make direct bookings	Provided travel agents with access to online reservation systems to book passenger flights with higher efficiency, speed, and flexibility (e.g., multi-destination travel). The system gained great penetration because travel agents understood its value in helping the agents to make bookings. In this booking process, American used the system to display its own flights before showing the flights operated by other airlines. This preferential ordering boosted American's bookings. As the system became the industry standard for travel agent bookings, other airlines paid American for the ability to list their flights and a higher fee for priority listing. These fees boosted American's non-operational revenue. American gained valuable intelligence about competitors' prices and routes and was able to utilize this information in setting its own routes and prices. Rival airlines sought regulatory intervention because they perceived SABRE to give American an unfair competitive advantage.
