Jacques S. Benninga, Marvin W Berkowitz, 2021-04-01 Sample Chapters FOR THE BETTER Marvin W Berkowitz University of Missouri St Louis THE OVERLOOKED INEQUITY Eric Schaps The Journal of Character Education is the only professional journal in education devoted to character education It is designed to cover the field from the latest research to applied best practices We include original research reports editorials and conceptual articles by the best minds in our field reviews of the latest books and other relevant strategies and manuscripts by educators that describe best practices in teaching and learning related to character education The Journal of Character Education has for over a decade been the sole scholarly journal focused on research theory measurement and practice of character education In this issue of the Journal of Character Education we return to something foundational and introduce something new The foundational element is a set of six independent scholarly manuscripts by a mix of emerging and established scholars We are pleased to introduce a new feature of the Journal of Character Education in this issue namely a section we are calling simply Opinion We began the JCE with an exclusive focus on publishing scholarship because there was no scholarly journal that focused on character education Over time we realized that we wanted to speak about practice and particularly to practitioners as well Hence we created a section we call Voices to present innovations and perspectives representing the voices of exemplary practitioners of character education Now we introduce the Opinion section that will allow us to publish perspectives from leading authorities in the field that might be more provocative We would love to hear responses to either or both opinion articles and are working on plans to share such responses perhaps on one of our related websites At this point we plan on publishing more opinion articles and for now by invitation However we are always willing to consider unsolicited articles for possible inclusion in the JCE

Hoffman, Gareth E. Conway, Jan Maarten Schraagen, David Peebles, Robert J. B. Hutton, Erich J. Petushek, 2018-02-28 The increasing complexity of work systems and changes in the nature of workplace technology over the past century have resulted in an exponential shift in the nature of work activities from physical labor to cognitive work Modern work systems have many characteristics that make them cognitively complex They can be highly interactive comprised of multiple agents and artifacts information may be limited and distributed across space and time task goals are frequently ill defined conflicting dynamic and emergent planning may only be possible at general levels of abstraction or require adaptive solutions some degree of proficiency or expertise is required the stakes are often high and uncertainty time constraints and stress are seldom absent To complicate matters further cognition in complex work settings is typically constrained by broader professional organizational and institutional practice and policy These features of cognitive work present significant challenges to scientific methodology and theory and subsequent design of reliable interventions Historically philosophers and scientists have attempted to understand the mental activities experienced during cognitive work at multiple levels of analysis using divergent methods Some have examined cognition at an associative contextual functional or holistic level relying on naturalistic methods to understand the higher mental processes as they work in harmony during goal directed behavior Others have embraced experimental methods and favored internal over external validity often reducing cognition to a psychology of fundamental acts such as short term memory access with millisecond shifts in attention More recently Macro cognition has evolved as a complementary paradigm Macro cognitive researchers have studied the cognitive functions and processes associated with skilled adaptive collaborative and resilient cognitive work in the context of the aforementioned complexities of psychotechnical and sociotechnical work systems Typically this research has been carried out using cognitive task analytic techniques that draw on both naturalistic and quasi experimental methods The primary goals of research in Macrocognition are to better understand cognitive adaptations to complexity to increase our theoretical understanding of the organism environment relations by studying the mapping between cognitive work and real world demands and to promote use inspired research capable of improving system performance      Engineering
