in Instructions for Use of Consumer Products Ari Nissinen,2005-03-11 The European Union has highlighted the issue of environmentally sound use of products in the context of Integrated Product Policy IPP Accordingly consumers should have easy access to understandable relevant and credible environmental information Information about product characteristics is available in different forms and sources but in many cases relevant environmental information is not available on the product itself The study described in this report was initiated in order to produce information on the state of user instructions regarding environmental information User manuals of passenger cars and refrigerators were focused on examining the advice which could diminish the harmful environmental effects of the use of these products Other studied products included such durable products as textiles and furniture as well as such consumables as cleaning chemicals and recyclable paper products The study raised many ideas about actions that could promote the status and eco development of instructions for

Benarie,2015-12-26 This book brings together the methods models and formulae used for estimating air pollution concentrations in urban areas From the ForewordThe visible effects of pollution in most cities in the developed countries have been reduced dramatically in the past thirty years This has been achieved to a large extent by the replacement of most of the low level sources which burnt raw coal by more modern appliances using gas electricity or low sulphur oil The killer smog of 1952 could not be repeated unless there were to be a massive return to old fashioned heating methods due for example to excessive environmental constraints being applied to the more modern energy sources It is important therefore to judge the impact of a new source in terms of its effect on the pattern of existing sources One should also consider the environmental consequences of rejecting the new installation and examine the alternatives that its product may either be denied to the community at large produced elsewhere or produced using existing facilities These facilities are probably less efficient and may therefore produce more pollution per unit of product than the new plant would An objective quantitative urban air pollution model is clearly an essential component in such a decision making process Dr Benarie has produced a distillation of existing modelling techniques which will I hope become the launching pad for many future models As each city is unique it will need its own tailor made model drawing on the best and the most appropriate techniques developed previously Agreement with observations is the only real test of validity because the physics and chemistry are so complicated that theoretical arguments are reduced to the role of assisting in the best formulation of the problem Numerical precision must always rely on measurement This is the approach that Dr Benarie has adopted David J Moore Central Electricity Research Laboratories Leatherhead Surrey UK Serious Violations of Human Rights Ilia Siatitsa,2022 This monograph represents the most recent analysis of the use of the expression serious violations of human rights in international practice It proposes a systematic and structured engagement with the international practice around serious
