Sweeney,2016-03-03

The Idea of Home in Law Displacement and Dispossession explores an important set of legal and policy issues surrounding the concepts of home and homelessness taking a growing area of legal scholarship into the new arena of human rights and international law The collection considers the ideas concerning home both in the sense of the dwelling place as a special type of property and territorial claims to homeland which underpin many contemporary legal problems by examining a range of contexts where people are displaced or dispossessed from their homes The essays focusing on dispossession consider themes ranging from mortgage and rent arrears in the UK to responses to the foreclosure crisis in the USA and from eviction for the purposes of economic development in South Africa to the exclusion of asylum seekers from the UK s social housing and welfare provision and within the framework of the European Convention on Human Rights The displacement theme meanwhile examines transnational home issues from the experiences of exiles and refugees in areas of conflict to the impact of the broader context of economic social and cultural rights on attempts to protect housing and home through international law At the heart of each essay the contributors experts from across the fields of law policy and housing rights examine the circumstances in which displacement and dispossession take place and reconsider how law and policy respond to such circumstances with a particular focus on the impact of loss of home for the human person At a time of particular and increasing concern about security of tenure and the role of law and policy in protecting people who are vulnerable to forced eviction The Idea of Home in Law presents a bold opportunity to raise questions about the rights and norms associated with housing and home and to generate new insights for scholarship and for national and international policy debates concerning displacement and dispossession Shifting Paradigms in International Investment Law Steffen Hindelang, Markus Krajewski, 2016-01-21 International investment law is in transition Whereas the prevailing mindset has always been the protection of the economic interests of individual investors new developments in international investment law have brought about a paradigm shift There is now more than ever before an interest in a more inclusive transparent and public regime Shifting Paradigms in International Investment Law addresses these changes against the background of the UNCTAD framework to reform investment treaties The book analyses how the investment treaty regime has changed and how it ought to be changing to reconcile private property interests and the state's duty to regulate in the public interest In doing so the volume tracks attempts in international investment law to recalibrate itself towards a more balanced less isolated and increasingly diversified regime The individual chapters of this edited volume address the contents of investment agreements the system of dispute settlement the interrelation of investment agreements with other areas of public international law constitutional questions and new regional perspectives from Europe South Africa the Pacific Rim Region and Latin America Together they provide an invaluable resource for scholars practitioners and policymakers The individual chapters of this edited volume address the contents of investment agreements the system of dispute settlement the interrelation of investment agreements with other areas of public international law constitutional questions and new regional perspectives from Europe South Africa the Pacific Rim Region and Latin America Together they provide an invaluable resource for scholars practitioners and policymakers *Council About Parochiaid v.
