Berkowitz,2000 While the customary path to achievement in traditional China was through service to the state from the earliest times certain individuals had been acclaimed for repudiating an official career This book traces the formulation and portrayal of the practice of reclusion in China from the earliest times through the sixth century by which time reclusion had taken on its enduring character Those men who decided to withhold their service to state governance fit the dictum from the Book of Changes of a man who does not serve a king or lord he elevates in priority his own affairs This characterization came to serve as a byword of individual and voluntary withdrawal the image of the man whose lofty resolve could not be humbled for service to a temporal ruler Men who eschewed official appointments in favor of pursuing their own personal ideals were known by such appellations as hidden men yinshi disengaged persons yimin high minded men gaoshi and scholars at home

chushi What distinguished these men was a particular strength of character that underlay their conduct they received approbation for maintaining their resolve their mettle their integrity and their moral and personal values in the face of adversity threat or temptation This book reveals that those who opted for a life of seclusion had a variety of motivations for their decisions and conducted widely divergent ways of life The lives of these men epitomize the distinctive nature of substantive seclusion differentiating them from those of the intelligentsia who on occasion voiced their desire for disengagement or for retreat but who nevertheless found or retained their places in government office Throughout the author places the recluse and seclusion within the social political intellectual religious and literary contexts of the times

Name and Actuality in Early Chinese Thought John Makeham,1994-07-22 This is the first Western study of the philosophy of Xu Gan 170 217 a Confucian thinker who lived at a nodal point in the history of Chinese thought when Han scholasticism had become ossified and the creative and independent quality that characterized Wei Jin thought was just emerging As the theme of his study Makeham develops an original and richly detailed account of ming shi name and actuality one of the key pairs of concepts in early Chinese thought He shows how Xu Gan s understanding of the name and actuality relationship was most immediately influenced by Xu Gan s understanding of why the Han dynasty had collapsed yet had its roots in a tradition of discourse that spanned the classical period circa 500 150 B C E In reconstructing the philosophical background of Xu Gan s understanding of the relationship between name and actuality Makeham identifies two antithetical theories of naming in early Chinese thought nominalist and correlative a distinction that is as great as the Realist Nominalist distinction of Western thought He shows how Xu Gan s views on the name and actuality relationship were animated on the one hand by a rejection of nominalist theories of naming and on the other hand by a novel appropriation of correlative theories of naming The study also analyzes two of the more immediate social and intellectual issues in the late Eastern Han 25 220 period that had prompted Xu Gan to discuss the name and actuality relationship the ethos of the scholar gentry ming jiao and Han approaches to classical scholarship Makeham demonstrates how Xu Gan s critique of these matters is valuable not only as a late Han philosophical account of what had led to the demise of the 400 year old Han dynasty but also as a mode of conceptualizing that contributed to the new direction that philosophical thinking took in the third century C E
