Field Archaeology in Britain John Coles, 2014-11-13 A practical guide to the various modern methods of discovery excavation and recording of the remains left by prehistoric man in Britain It stresses the vital role played by the amateur rescuing evidence of man's past behaviour in these islands and is illustrated by maps site plans and sections and drawings of equipment and surveying procedures Originally published in 1972 Routledge Library Editions: Historiography

Various, 2021-06-23 The greatest problem in historical scholarship theoretically and practically is the relation between historians and their subject matter The past is gone and historians can only study its remnants On what basis do scholars select certain facts from the mass of data left from the past How do they explain the interrelationship of the facts they select What criteria do they use to evaluate their subject The 35 volumes in this set originally published between 1926 and 1990 discuss and answer these essential questions faced by historians The development of historical understanding during the 18th and 19th centuries was one of the most striking features of Western culture Both historiography and historical thinking advanced as never before The historical movement of the 19th century was perhaps second only to the scientific revolution of the seventeenth century in transforming Western thought One consequence was extensive organisation and professionalization of research which the volumes in this set reflect From Coast to Fen: Archaeology in a Dynamic Landscape Claire Christie, Joshua T. Hogue, 2025-07-18 Excavations across East Lincolnshire reveal prehistoric Iron Age Roman and post medieval settlements saltmaking and industrial activity shaped by changing landscapes The area between Anderby Creek and Bicker Fen Lincolnshire to the west of the Lincolnshire Wolds represents a dynamic landscape both in terms of its natural and human aspects This volume presents the results of an extensive programme of archaeological excavation undertaken by Headland Archaeology UK Ltd and Allen Archaeology Ltd from 2018 to 2019 where a total of 15 sites were excavated The excavations uncovered a panoply of remains spanning the prehistoric through to modern periods providing important insights into changing patterns of occupation and the way this diverse landscape was utilised As evidenced through the archaeological works the area saw limited activity during the early prehistoric period in part reflecting the prevailing environmental conditions in which most of the area was inundated Among the earliest recorded finds was an enigmatic middle Bronze Age timber structure as well as a copper alloy axe During the Roman period there is evidence for an expansion in activity across the Scheme with formerly inundated areas becoming accessible Activity within the northern half of the Scheme was focused upon salt production Two of these sites were dated to the late Roman period contrary to the prevailing notion that the salt industry in this region had declined by the mid 2nd century AD Within the southern half of the Scheme were several Roman farmsteads some featuring timber buildings Notable among these was an unusual post built moated structure From these sites a range of artefactual and environmental data was collected providing important insights into the nature of agricultural regimes Evidence of medieval and post medieval activity was also uncovered providing important insights into the development of rural settlement against a backdrop of landscape and environmental changes Evidence of late to post medieval clay extraction and brick manufacture was also identified

British Books in Print ,1985 Agriculture and Industry in South-Eastern Roman Britain David Bird,2016-12-31 The ancient counties surrounding the Weald in the SE corner of England have a strongly marked character of their own that has survived remarkably well in the face of ever increasing population pressure The area is however comparatively neglected in discussion of Roman Britain where it is often subsumed into a generalised treatment of the civilian part of Britannia that is based largely on other parts of the country This book aims to redress the balance The focus is particularly on Kent Surrey and Sussex account is taken of information from neighboring counties particularly when the difficult subsoils affect the availability of evidence An overview of the environment and a consideration of themes relevant to the South East as a whole accompany 14 papers covering the topics of rural settlement in each county crops querns and millstones animal exploitation salt production leatherworking the working of bone and similar materials the production of iron and iron objects non ferrous metalworking pottery production and the supply of tile to Roman London Agriculture and industry provides an up to date assessment of our knowledge of the southern hinterland of Roman London and an area that was particularly open to influences from the Continent British Book News British Council,1992 Includes no 53a British wartime books for young people

The Creation of Monuments Alistair Oswald,Carolyn Dyer,Martyn Barber,2014-07-15 Neolithic Causewayed enclosures are amongst the oldest rarest and most enigmatic of the ancient monuments found in Europe First recognised as a distinct type in the 1920s sixty nine certain or probable examples have now been identified in the British Isles As a class they are of outstanding importance for while their precise functions remain unclear they represent the first non funerary monuments and the earliest instance of the enclosure of open space This book presents an overview of the findings of a systematic national programme of research carried out by the RCHME now merged with English Heritage Every certain probable and suggested causewayed enclosure in England has been investigated through integrated aerial and field survey Specialist reconnaissance flying has been undertaken along with the thorough analysis of aerial photographs taken from the 1920s onwards This has greatly increased the number of sites known turning the spotlight onto many that have received little or no archaeological attention in the past The aerial surveys now available offer a new basis for improved understanding Analytical field investigations of the few causewayed enclosures that are well preserved as earthworks have also squeezed fresh information out of even those long familiar to archaeologists Far from merely dotting the i s and crossing the t s of past fieldworkers these detailed surveys have led to the rejection of some long held theories and the proposal of new interpretations This book significantly advances the understanding of causewayed enclosures both as individual monuments and as a class It is a major contribution to the understanding of the British Neolithic and to landscape archaeology more generally

Sacred Landscapes in Antiquity Ralph Haussler,Gian Franco Chiaia,2020-07-31 From generation to generation people experience their landscapes differently Humans depend on their natural environment it shapes their behavior while it is often felt that deities responsible for both natural benefits and natural calamities such as droughts famines floods and landslides need to be appeased We presume that in many societies lakes rivers rocks mountains caves and groves were considered sacred Individual sites and entire landscapes are often associated with divine actions mythical heroes and etiological myths Throughout human history people have also felt the need to monumentalize their sacred landscape But this is where the similarities end as different societies had very different understandings believes and practices The aim of this new thematic appraisal is to scrutinize carefully our evidence and rethink our methodologies in a multi disciplinary approach More than 30 papers investigate diverse sacred landscapes from the Iberian peninsula and Britain in the west to China in the east They discuss how to interpret the intricate web of ciphers and symbols in the landscape and how people might have experienced it We see the role of performance ritual orality textuality and memory in people s sacred landscapes A diachronic view allows us to study how landscapes were rewritten adapted and redefined in the course of time to suit new cultural political and religious understandings not to mention the impact of urbanism on people s understandings A key question is how was the landscape manipulated transformed and monumentalized especially the colossal investments in monumental architecture we see in certain socio historic contexts or the creation of an alternative humanmade seemingly non natural landscape with perfectly astronomically aligned buildings that define a cosmological order Sacred Landscapes therefore aims to analyze the complex links between landscape religiosity and society developing a dialectic framework that explores sacred landscapes across the ancient world in a dynamic holistic contextual and historical perspective

Neolithic Stone Extraction in Britain and Europe Peter Topping, 2021-12-08 This book focuses on the introduction of Neolithic extraction practices across Europe through to the Atlantic periphery of Britain and Ireland The key research questions are when and why were these practices adopted and what role did extraction sites play in Neolithic society Neolithic mines and quarries have frequently been seen as fulfilling roles linked to the expansion of the Neolithic economy However this ignores the fact that many communities chose to selectively dig for certain types of stone in preference to others and why the products from these sites were generally deposited in special places such as wetlands To address this question 168 near global ethnographic studies were analyzed to identify common trends in traditional extraction practices to produce robust statistics about their motivations and material signatures Repeated associations emerged between storied locations the organization of extraction practices long distance distribution of products and the material evidence such activities left behind This suggests that we can now probably identify mythologized storied sites seasonality ritualized extraction and the use life of extraction site products The ethnographic model was tested against data from 223 near global archaeological extraction sites which confirmed a similar patterning in both material records It was used to analyze the social context of 79 Neolithic flint mine and 51 axe quarry excavations in Britain and Ireland and to review their European origins The evidence that emerges confirms the pivotal role played by Neolithic extraction practices in European Neolithization and that the interaction of indigenous foragers with migrant miners farmers was fundamental to the adoption of the new agropastoral lifestyle
