Leadership and Cultural Change

Ramona Houmanfar, Mark Mattaini, 2018-10-16

Contemporary confluences of leadership decision making and citizenship behavior often unintentionally contribute to the depletion of the world's resources escalating health education and social crises as well as community societal and cultural struggles to adapt to emerging global shifts. Leadership and management practices in this context affect the wellbeing of organizational members e.g. their safety health financial security etc but also entail positive or negative impacts on consumer practices and collective community well being e.g. education obesity cancer safe or green driving energy conservation diversity based health care etc. Decision making in most businesses and organizations is largely responsive to demands for short term profit or cost minimization. On the consumer side both cultural values and the corporate marketing practices that sustain them encourage high levels of consumption necessary to sustain corporate practices. In exploring the emerging applications of behavior science to these challenges this book showcases emerging work by internationally recognized scholars on leadership and cultural change. The book will aid organizations and leaders in creating new models of stewardship and will open opportunities for innovation while adapting and responding to growing social upheaval technological advances and environmental concerns as well as crises in the global economy health education and environment. This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Organizational Behavior Management.

Feminist Accountability

Ann Russo, 2018-12-04. Explores accountability as a framework for building movements to transform systemic oppression and violence. What does it take to build communities to stand up to injustice and create social change? How do we work together to transform without reproducing systems of violence and oppression? In an age when feminism has become increasingly mainstream noted feminist scholar and activist Ann Russo asks feminists to consider the ways that our own behavior might contribute to the interlocking systems of oppression that we aim to dismantle. Feminist Accountability offers an intersectional analysis of three main areas of feminism in practice: anti-racist work, community accountability and transformative justice, and US based work in and about violence in the global south. Russo explores accountability as a set of frameworks and practices for community and movement building against oppression and violence. Rather than evading the ways that we are implicated, complicit or actively engaged in harm, Russo shows us how we might cultivate accountability so that we can contribute to the feminist work of transforming oppression and violence. Among many others, Russo brings up the example of the most prominent and funded feminist and LGBT antiviolence organizations which have become mainstream in social service advocacy and policy reform projects. This means they often approach violence through a social service and criminal legal lens that understands violence as an individual and interpersonal issue rather than a social and political one. As a result they ally with rather than significantly challenge the state institutions policies and systems that underlie and contribute to endemic violence Grounded in theories analyses and politics developed by feminists of color and transnational feminists of the global south with her own thirty plus years of participation in community building organizing and activism Russo provides insider expertise and critical reflection on leveraging frameworks of accountability to upend inequitable divides and the culture that supports them

Field Instruction in Social Work Education Roshni Nair,Srilatha Juvva,Vimla V. Nadkarni,2019-10-28 A comprehensive guide to social work praxis this book provides a clear conceptual understanding of fieldwork supervision in India It elaborates on the dynamic components of fieldwork instruction the methodologies and effective strategies the supervisor student agency triad challenges and the future The volume underlines the importance of student mentoring and the imperative need to develop creative and competent strategies to make fieldwork education more responsive and effective

It also emphasises the need for the inclusion of social justice oriented perspectives and approaches in fieldwork training in India. Instructive and anecdotal the chapters in this volume reflect on the challenges which students and supervisors face on a regular basis in different environments while dealing with critical circumstances. The focus of the book is to delineate strategies and approaches which promote skill building and the ability in students to understand sociocultural contexts of the field and engage with them effectively. This volume will be an essential resource for social work educators, field practitioners and students of social work, law, public policy, sociology and social entrepreneurship.

Peace Studies between Tradition and Innovation Randall Amster, Edmund Pries, 2015-02-05. The field of peace and conflict studies is rich in secular and faith traditions. At the same time as a relatively new and interdisciplinary field, it is ripe with innovation. This volume, the first in the series Peace Studies Edges and Innovations edited by Michael Minch and Laura Finley of the Peace and Justice Studies Association (PJSA), is edited by top Canadian and US scholars in the field and captures both those traditions and innovations focusing on enduring questions: organizing and activism, peace pedagogy and practical applications. From the historical focus on disarmament, ending warfare and reducing militarism to the civil rights, women's rights and environmental movements, peace activists and pedagogues have long been important agents of social change. Authored by US and Canadian academics, educators and activists, the chapters in this book demonstrate how scholars and practitioners in the field are using the important knowledge, skills and values of their foremothers and forefathers to address new issues, integrate new technologies and make new partners in their efforts to create a more just and humane world.

The Energy of Forgiveness Mark S. Umbreit, Jennifer Blevins, Ted Lewis, 2015-07-15. Forgiveness is a profound life-changing experience for many people who have been hurt by others. But forgiveness is paradoxical in that if one relies on forgiveness language or if others prescribe it as an expectation, the depth of that experience can be significantly compromised. By the same token, many people experience deep forgiveness without ever using the language of forgiveness. Most of the stories in this book testify to how forgiveness is experienced primarily as an inner unburdening of negative emotions, a process that is aided by safe facilitated dialogue with the offending party. New research on the benefits of forgiveness is on the rise these days, yet there is often little narrative to show the power of forgiveness. The authors present more than twelve case studies that led up to restorative dialogue processes where parties chose to meet together. Whether the case involves the murder of a loved one, a burglary or the buildup of workplace tensions, a common pattern emerges as both parties encounter the true humanity of the other person; the negative energy stemming from the offense is transformed into a positive energy that gives both parties a deep inner peace and new freedom.

The Business of War James McCarty, Matthew Tapie, Justin Bronson Barringer, 2020-10-01. The Business of War incisively interrogates the development and contemporary implications of the military industrial complex. It exposes the moral dangers of life in neoliberal economies dependent upon war making for their growth and brings the Christian tradition's abundance of resources into conversation with this phenomenon. In doing so, the authors invite us to rethink the moral possibilities of Christian life in the present day with an eye toward faithful resistance to the business of war and its influence in every aspect of our lives In combining biblical historical theological and ethical analyses of the business of war the authors invite us to better understand it as a new moral problem that demands a new faithful response With contributions from Pamela Brubaker Stan Goff Christina McRorie Kara Slade Won Chul Shin David Swartz Jonathan Tran Myles Werntz Matthew Whelan Tobias Winright The Routledge Handbook of Critical Pedagogies for Social Work Christine Morley, Phillip Ablett, Carolyn Noble, Stephen Cowden, 2020-01-20 The Routledge Handbook of Critical Pedagogies for Social Work traverses new territory by providing a cutting edge overview of the work of classic and contemporary theorists in a way that expands their application and utility in social work education and practice thus providing a bridge between critical theory philosophy and social work Each chapter showcases the work of a specific critical educational philosophical and or social theorist including Henry Giroux Michel Foucault Cornelius Castoriadis Herbert Marcuse Paulo Freire bell hooks Joan Tronto Iris Marion Young Karl Marx Antonio Gramsci and many others to elucidate the ways in which their key pedagogic concepts can be applied to specific aspects of social work education and practice The text exhibits a range of research based approaches to educating social work practitioners as agents of social change It provides a robust and much needed alternative paradigm to the technique driven conservative revolution currently being fostered by neoliberalism in both social work education and practice The volume will be instructive for social work educators who aim to teach for social change by assisting students to develop counter hegemonic practices of resistance and agency and reflecting on the pedagogic role of social work practice more widely The volume holds relevance for both postgraduate and undergraduate qualifying social work and human services courses around the world Strategic Nonviolent Power Mark A. Mattaini, 2013-10-01 History indicates that there are powerful routes to liberation from oppression that do not involve violence Mohandas Gandhi called for a science of nonviolent action one based on satyagraha or the insistence on truth As Gandhi understood nonviolent resistance is not passive nor is it weak rather such action is an exercise of power Despite the success of Gandhi's Quit India movement the resources dedicated to the application of rigorous science to nonviolent struggle have been vanishingly small By contrast almost unimaginable levels of financial and human resources have been devoted to the science and technologies of killing war and collective violence Mark Mattaini reviews the history and theory of nonviolent struggles against oppression and discusses recent research that indicates the substantial need for and advantage of nonviolent alternatives He then offers a detailed exploration of principles of behavioral systems science that appear to underlie effective strategic civil resistance and people power Strategic Nonviolent Power proposes that the route to what Gandhi described as the undreamt of and seemingly impossible discoveries of nonviolent resistance is the application of rigorous science Although not a simple science Mattaini's application of ecological science grounded in the science of behaviour brings exceptional power to the struggle for justice and liberation At a time when civil resistance is actively reshaping global political realities the science of nonviolent struggle deserves the attention of the scientific activist strategic military spiritual and diplomatic communities as well as the informed public

Progressive Punishment Judah Schept, 2015-12-04 Winner 2017 American Society of Criminology's Division on Critical Criminology and Social Justice Best Book Award An examination of the neoliberal politics of incarceration The growth of mass incarceration in the United States eludes neat categorization as a product of the political Right Liberals played important roles in both laying the foundation for and then participating in the conservative tough on crime movement that is largely credited with the rise of the prison state But what of those politicians and activists on the Left who reject punitive politics in favor of rehabilitation and a stronger welfare state Can progressive policies such as these with their benevolent intentions nevertheless contribute to the expansion of mass incarceration In Progressive Punishment Judah Schept offers an ethnographic examination into the politics of incarceration in Bloomington Indiana in order to consider the ways that liberal discourses about therapeutic justice and rehabilitation can uphold the logics practices and institutions that comprise the carceral state Schept examines how political leaders on the Left despite being critical of mass incarceration advocated for a justice campus that would have dramatically expanded the local criminal justice system At the root of this proposal Schept argues is a confluence of neoliberal style changes in the community that naturalized prison expansion as political common sense among leaders negotiating crises of deindustrialization urban decline and the devolution of social welfare In spite of the momentum that the proposal gained Schept uncovers resistance among community organizers who developed important strategies and discourses to challenge the justice campus disrupt some of the logics that provided it legitimacy and offer new possibilities for a non carceral community A well researched and well narrated study Progressive Punishment offers a novel perspective on the relationship between liberal politics neoliberalism and mass incarceration

Doing Democracy with Circles Jennifer Ball, Wayne Caldwell, Kay Pranis, 2013-11

Psychological Components of Sustainable Peace Peter T. Coleman, Morton Deutsch, 2012-06-15 Scholarship on the psychology of peace has been accumulating for decades The approach employed has been predominantly centered on addressing and preventing conflict and violence and less on the conditions associated with promoting peace Concerns around nuclear annihilation enemy images discrimination denial of basic human needs terrorism and torture have been the focal points of most research The Psychological Components of a Sustainable Peace moves beyond a prevention orientation to the study of the conditions for increasing the probabilities for sustainable cooperative peace Such a view combines preventative scholarship with a promotive orientation to the study of peaceful situations and societies The contributors to this volume examine the components of various psychological theories that contribute to the promotion of a harmonious sustainable peace Underlying this orientation is the belief that promoting the ideas and actions which can lead to a sustainable harmonious peace will not only contribute to the prevention of war but will also lead to more positive constructive relations among people and nations and to a more sustainable planet The Psychological Components of a Sustainable Peace is valuable and stimulating reading for researchers in peace psychology political psychology and conflict resolution as well as others who are interested in developing a sustainable harmonious world Turning to One Another Margaret J.
