

Chapter 15: Nervous coordination and muscles

15.1 Neurons and nervous coordination

Principles of coordination:

Hormonal system	Nervous system
Communication by hormone	Communication by nerve impulses
Transmission by the blood system	Transmission by neurons
Transmission is slow	Transmission is fast
Hormones travel to all parts of the body but only target cells respond	Nerve impulses travel to specific parts of the body
Response is widespread	Response is localised
Response is slow	Response is fast
Response is often long-lasting	Response is short-lived
Effect is permeable and irreversible	Effect is temporary and reversible

1. Cell body: production of proteins and neurotransmitters
2. Dendrons: extensions of the cell body that branch out into smaller dendrites carrying nerve impulses towards the cell body.
3. Axon: a single long fibre that carries nerve impulses away from the cell body
4. Schwann cells: provide the axon with protection and insulation. They can also undergo phagocytosis and nerve regeneration. These cells wrap themselves around the axon many times, building layers around the axon.
5. Myelin sheath: made up of Schwann cells membranes which are in myelin (a lipid)
6. Nodes of Ranvier: space between adjacent Schwann cells where there's no myelin sheath.

15.2 The nerve impulse: a self-propagating wave of electrical activity that travels along the axon membranes

Resting potential: the inside of an axon is negatively charged relative to the outside. It ranges from -92 -50 mV. The axon is polarized at this stage. Movement of sodium ions (Na^+) and potassium ions (K^+) across the axon membrane is done in a number of different ways:

1. Phospholipid by layer of the axon plasma membrane prevents Na^+ and K^+ plus diffusion
2. Channel proteins have gates that can be opened or closed to move Na^+ and K^+ through by facilitated diffusion at one time
3. Some carrier proteins actively transport K^+ into the axon and Na^+ out, which is the sodium potassium pump

How is the resting potential established?

1. Na^+ are actively transported out of the axon by the pump
2. K^+ are actively transported into the axon by the pump
3. There's a greater active transport of Na^+ , so 3Na^+ move out for 2K^+ that move inside.
4. An electrochemical gradient is created because there are more Na^+ in the tissue fluid surrounding the axon than in the cytoplasm where there's a higher concentration of K^+
5. Na^+ begin to diffuse back into the axon while K^+ will diffuse out
6. Most of the potassium voltage gated channels are open while all sodium voltage gated channels are closed

Pearson Biology Notes Ch 31 Nervous:

Insect Media Jussi Parikka, 2010 Since the early nineteenth century when entomologists first popularized the unique biological and behavioral characteristics of insects technological innovators and theorists have proposed insects as templates for a wide range of technologies In Insect Media Jussi Parikka analyzes how insect forms of social organization swarms hives webs and distributed intelligence have been used to structure modern media technologies and the network society providing a radical new perspective on the interconnection of biology and technology Through close engagement with the pioneering work of insect ethologists including Jakob von Uexküll and Karl von Frisch posthumanist philosophers media theorists and contemporary filmmakers and artists Parikka develops an insect theory of media one that conceptualizes modern media as more than the products of individual human actors social interests or technological determinants They are rather profoundly nonhuman phenomena that both draw on and mimic the alien lifeworlds of insects Deftly moving from the life sciences to digital technology from popular culture to avant garde art and architecture and from philosophy to cybernetics and game theory Parikka provides innovative conceptual tools for exploring the phenomena of network society and culture Challenging anthropocentric approaches to contemporary science and culture Insect Media reveals the possibilities that insects and other nonhuman animals offer for rethinking media the conflation of biology and technology and our understanding of and interaction with contemporary digital culture

Snake Venoms C.-Y. Lee, 2012-12-06 The past decade has been a period of explosion of knowledge on the chemistry and pharmacology of snake toxins Thanks to the development of protein chemistry nearly a hundred snake toxins have been purified and sequenced representing one of the largest families of sequenced proteins Moreover the mode of action of these toxins has been largely elucidated by the concerted efforts of pharmacologists electro physiologists and biochemists As a result of these studies some of the snake toxins e g a bungarotoxin and cobra neurotoxins have been extensively used as specific markers in the study of the acetylcholine receptors. Indeed, without the discovery of these snake toxins, our knowledge of the structure and function of nicotinic acetylcholine receptors would not have advanced so rapidly. The contribution of snake venom research to the biomedical sciences is not limited to the study of cholinergic receptors. Being one of the most concentrated enzyme sources in nature, snake venoms are also valuable tools in biochemical research. Venom phosphodiesterase, for example, has been widely used for structural studies of nucleic acids; proteinase for the sequence studies of proteins and peptides; phospholipase A for lipid research; and L-amino acid oxidase for identifying optical isomers of amino acids. Furthermore, snake venoms have proven to be useful agents for clarifying some basic concepts on blood coagulation, and some venom enzymes, e.g., thrombin-like enzymes and pro-coagulants, have been used as therapeutic agents.

Studies on Time Series Applications in Environmental Sciences Alina Bărbulescu, 2016-03-12. Time series analysis and modelling represent a large study field, implying the approach from the perspective of time and frequency with applications in different domains. Modelling hydro-meteorological time series is difficult due to the characteristics of these series, such as long-range dependence, spatial dependence, the correlation with other series. Continuous spatial data plays an important role in planning risk assessment and decision making in environmental management. In this context, in this book, we present various statistical tests and modelling techniques used for time series analysis, as well as applications to hydro-meteorological series from Dobrogea, a region situated in the south-eastern part of Romania, less studied till now. Part of the results are accompanied by their R code.
