Evolutionary Biology R. Paul Thompson, Denis Walsh, 2014-03-13 Evolution both the fact that it occurred and the theory describing the mechanisms by which it occurred is an intrinsic and central component in modern biology Theodosius Dobzhansky captures this well in the much quoted title of his 1973 paper Nothing in biology makes sense except in the light of evolution The correctness of this assertion is even more obvious today philosophers of biology and biologists agree that the fact of evolution is undeniable and that the theory of evolution explains that fact Such a theory has far reaching implications In this volume eleven distinguished scholars address the conceptual metaphysical and epistemological richness of the theory and its ethical and religious impact exploring topics including DNA barcoding three grand challenges of human evolution functionalism historicity design evolution and development and religion and secular humanism The volume will be of great interest to those studying philosophy of biology and evolutionary biology The Biology and Evolution of Trematodes K. V. Galaktionov, A. Dobrovolskij, 2003-10-31 The book by K V Galaktionov and A A Dobrovolskij maintains the tradition of monographs devoted to detailed coverage of digenetic trematodes in the tradition of B Dawes 1946 and T A Ginetsinskaya 1968 In this respect the book is traditional in both its form and content In the beginning Chapter 1 the authors provide a consistent analysis of the morphological features of all life cycle stages Importantly they present a detailed characterization of sporocysts and rediae whose morphological functional organization has never been comprehensively described in modern literature The authors not only list morphological characteristics but also analyze the functional significance of different morphological structures and hypothesize about their evolution Special attention is given to specific features of morphogenesis in all stages of the trematode life cycle On this basis the authors provide several original suggestions about the possible origins of morphological evolution of the parthenogenetic asexual and the hermaphroditic generations This is followed by a detailed consideration of the various morphological biological adaptations that ensure the successful completion of the complex life cycles of these parasites Chapter 2 Life cycles inherent in different trematodes are subject to a special analysis Chapter 3 The authors distinguish several basic types of life cycles and suggest an original interpretation of their evolutionary origin Chapter 4 features the analysis of structure and the dynamics of trematode populations and is unusual for a monograph of this type Conceptual Issues in Evolutionary Biology Elliott Sober, 1994 There has been debate in philosophy of biology over the decade since the first edition of this anthology appeared Changes and additions in the new edition reflect the ways in which the subject has broadened and deepened on several fronts more than half of the chapters are new In all twenty three selections take up fitness function and teleology adaptationism units of selection essentialism and population thinking species systematic philosophies phylogenetic inference reduction of Mendelian genetics to molecular biology ethics and sociobiology and cultural evolution and evolutionary epistemology

Biology of Skates David A. Ebert, James Sulikowski, 2008-12-25 Skates have become a concern in recent years due to the preponderance of these elasmobranchs that are caught as bycatch or as a directed fishery This has raised concern because skates have life history characteristics that may make them vulnerable to over exploitation It was due to this concern that prompted Drs David Ebert and James Sulikowski to organize an international symposium on the Biology of Skates The aims and goals of the symposium were to bring together an international group of researchers to meet discuss perhaps develop collaborations and present their most recent findings The symposium was held over two days on 13-14 July 2006 in conjunction with the 22nd annual meeting of the American Elasmobranch Society in New Orleans LA A total of 31 authors from four countries contributed 16 papers that appear in this volume. The papers are broadly arranged into four separate categories: systematics and biogeography, diet and feeding ecology, reproductive biology and age and growth. This is the first dedicated book on the biology of skates. We hope that readers will find this volume of interest and that it helps encourage and stimulate future research into these fascinating fishes.

Longman Complete Guide to Biology 2/e, The National Estuarine Eutrophication Project, 1991

In-Vitro Fertilization Kay Elder, Brian Dale, 2020-03-12. This extensively updated new edition provides an indispensable account of modern in vitro fertilization practice building upon the popularity of previous editions. The authors initially give a comprehensive review of the biology of human gametes and embryos before outlining basic to advanced IVF techniques. New developments in practical techniques and understanding are discussed including in vitro maturation, vitrification, preservation of fertility for cancer patients, stem cell technology, preimplantation genetic testing and the role of epigenetics and imprinting. The revised introduction also incorporates a refresher study review of fundamental principles of cell and molecular biology now updated with current knowledge of meiosis in human oocytes, embryo metabolism and basic principles of genome editing. With high quality illustrations and extensive up to date reading lists, it is a must have textbook for trainee and practising embryologists as well as clinicians who are interested in the scientific principles that underpin successful IVF.

Longman Science Biology 10 Tewari Akhilesh, 2008-09

Major Evolutionary Transitions in Flowering Plant Reproduction Spencer C. H. Barrett, 2008-11-28. The first volume to address the study of evolutionary transitions in plants. Major Evolutionary Transitions in Flowering Plant Reproduction brings together compelling work from the three areas of significant innovation in plant biology: evolution and adaptation in flowers and pollination, mating patterns and gender strategies, and asexual reproduction and polyploidy. Spencer C. H. Barrett assembles here a distinguished group of authors who address evolutionary transitions using comparative and phylogenetic approaches, the tools of genomics, population genetics and theoretical modeling, and through studies in development and field experiments in ecology. With special focus on evolutionary transitions and shifts in reproductive characters, key elements of biological diversification and research in evolutionary biology. Major Evolutionary Transitions in Flowering Plant Reproduction is the most up to date treatment of a fast moving area of evolutionary biology and ecology.

Biology Neil A. Campbell, Jane B. Reece, 2005. Neil Campbell and Jane Reece's BIOLOGY remains unsurpassed as the most successful major biology textbook in the world. This text has invited more than 4 million students into the study of this dynamic and essential discipline. The authors have restructured each chapter around a conceptual framework of five or six big ideas. An Overview draws students in and sets the stage for the rest of the chapter; each numbered Concept Head announces the beginning of a new concept, and Concept Check questions at the end of each chapter encourage students to assess their mastery of a given concept. New Inquiry Figures focus students on the experimental process, and new Research Method Figures illustrate important techniques in biology. Each chapter ends with a Scientific Inquiry Question that asks students to apply scientific
