Pearson Biology Notes Ch 3nervous:

Insect Media Jussi Parikka, 2010 Since the early nineteenth century when entomologists first popularized the unique biological and behavioral characteristics of insects technological innovators and theorists have proposed insects as templates for a wide range of technologies In Insect Media Jussi Parikka analyzes how insect forms of social organization swarms hives webs and distributed intelligence have been used to structure modern media technologies and the network society providing a radical new perspective on the interconnection of biology and technology Through close engagement with the pioneering work of insect ethologists including Jakob von Uexküll and Karl von Frisch posthumanist philosophers media theorists and contemporary filmmakers and artists Parikka develops an insect theory of media one that conceptualizes modern media as more than the products of individual human actors social interests or technological determinants They are rather profoundly nonhuman phenomena that both draw on and mimic the alien lifeworlds of insects Deftly moving from the life sciences to digital technology from popular culture to avant garde art and architecture and from philosophy to cybernetics and game theory Parikka provides innovative conceptual tools for exploring the phenomena of network society and culture Challenging anthropocentric approaches to contemporary science and culture Insect Media reveals the possibilities that insects and other nonhuman animals offer for rethinking media the conflation of biology and technology and our understanding of and interaction with contemporary digital culture

Continuity of Neural Functions from Prenatal to Postnatal Life Heinz F. R. Precht, 1984 Is the human neonate indeed physiological premature as has been frequently stated How does human neural development compare with that of other primate species Is early human development a gradual unfolding of neural mechanisms from prenatal to postnatal life or does it show rapid transformations at particular ages The aim of this book is to answer these and similar questions about the functional repertoire of the human fetus neonate and young infant Two main theoretical concepts are considered first the relationship between neural maturation and the duration of pregnancy and second the existence of ontogenetic adaptations Surveys and findings relevant to these concepts are provided by experts from various disciplines involved in research on fetal and preterm development and on the first three months of postnatal life This book differs from many others summarizing descriptive knowledge of the field by emphasizing new theoretical concepts of early functional development Recent ultrasound studies of the fetus have contributed greatly to this new approach which has clear implications for the assessment and care of young infants This thought provoking book will be of interest to developmental neurologists pediatricians and obstetricians as well as to developmental psychologists and physical anthropologists
