

LEVEL INDICATOR

A level indicator gives a warning when the coolant level is too low. The indicator consists of a level sensor fitted in the radiator tank, a relay and a warning light on the instrument panel.

If the coolant level has dropped that much that the level sensor is not surrounded by coolant the relay switches on the warning light. The relay has a certain delay to avoid that the light flashes when the coolant surges in the radiator.

How the level indicator is wired in the electric system is described in section "Electric system and instruments" in the wiring diagram for the combination instrument with monitors and sensors.
