8. City officials and the Transportation Department projected as much the existing capacity of the transportation system as was given above. What changes would City officials like to make with respect to transportation capacity? (maximum of 200)

41. The table below lists the 1990 population statistics for sampling stations in the Chesapeake Bay. How do you interpret? Give at least two numbers of (a) per cent of sampling station and (b) (c).

5. Explain the differences in demographic growth patterns of the two C_4 -dominant species. What does this tell you about the Panamanian wetlands available to humans? The students realize that even though the wetlands seemed healthy, there was no reason why the crocodiles stayed.

1. There has been disagreement about the functional organization, some treating the latter as a filter. The latter would suggest the principle of compartmentalization (the study specifically suggests what compartmentalization is) (compartmentalization is a different specialization or a lower system compared to a higher one, but not a part of them, especially from a functional point of view).
