

CPT Code 99396 – A Comprehensive Guide for Primary Care Providers

Basics of CPT Code 99396

CPT code 99396 refers to a preventive medicine evaluation and management (E/M) service for patients aged 65 years or older. It involves a comprehensive annual wellness visit (AWV), including personalized preventive medicine planning. This code emphasizes the importance of preventive care and allows primary care providers to assess the overall health status of their elderly patients. Understanding this code and its associated guidelines is crucial for accurate medical billing and reimbursement. So, let's dive into the details of CPT code 99396 and explore its importance in primary care practices.

Components of CPT Code 99396

CPT Code 99396 comprises various components that primary care providers need to consider when performing the service. Let's break down these components:

- Medical history: This component involves obtaining a detailed medical history, including past illnesses, surgeries, family history, and medications. Understanding the patient's medical background helps in identifying potential risk factors and designing appropriate preventive care strategies.
- Physical examination: A comprehensive physical examination is crucial to assess the patient's current health status. It includes evaluating vital signs, body systems, and overall physical well-being.
