Nderlich Fostering Imagination in Higher Education Joy Whitton, 2018-04-24 Imagination and creative teaching approaches are increasingly important across all higher education disciplines not just the arts Investigating the role of imagination in teaching and learning in non arts disciplines this book argues that a lack of clarity about what imagination looks like in higher education impedes teachers in fostering their students creativity Fostering Imagination in Higher Education tells four ethnographic stories from physics history finance and pharmaceutical science courses analytically observing the strategies educators use to encourage their students imagination and detailing how students experience learning when it is focussed on engaging their imagination The highly original study is framed by Ricoeur's work on different forms of imagination reproductive and productive or generative It links imaginative thinking to cognitive science and philosophy in particular the work of Clark Dennett and Polanyi and to the mediating role of disciplinary concepts and social cultural practices The author's discussion of models graphs strategies and artefacts as tools for taking learners thinking forward has much to offer understandings of pedagogy in higher education Students in these case studies learned to create themselves as knowledge producers and professionals It positioned them to experience actively the constructed nature of the knowledge and processes they were learning to use and the continuing potential of knowledge to be remade in the future This is what makes imaginative thinking elemental to the goals of higher education The Distributed University for Sustainable Higher Education Richard Frederick Heller, 2021-11-16 This book is open access and discusses the re imagining of the higher education sector It exposes problems that relate to the way that universities have become over managed business enterprises which may not reflect societal national or global educational needs From there it proposes some solutions including three innovative programs that make universities more responsive to needs as well as reduce their impact on the environment The central idea of this book is developing the Distributed University which distributes education to where it is needed reducing local and global inequalities in access and emphasizing local relevance in place of large centralized campuses with a low impact on the environment It emphasizes the distribution of trust in place of managerialism and collaboration in place of competition By focusing on distributing education online this book discusses how the higher education sector can be set up to adapt to the changes in the ways we work and learn today and which will be required to adapt to and take advantage of the Fourth Industrial Revolution
