Relaciones interpersonales y adherencia al tratamiento en pacientes crónicos María José Martos Méndez, 2009-12-11 El presente trabajo trata de determinar la incidencia del apoyo social percibido sobre la salud el bienestar y la adherencia al tratamiento del enfermo crónico Además es novedosa la inclusión en el estudio de las conductas de

apoyo social no funcional Otro propósito se encamina a determinar en qué grado se relaciona el cumplimiento terapéutico con la salud y el bienestar de los enfermos Por último se analiza el posible papel mediador del apoyo social y de la conducta de adherencia mediante la contrastación de un modelo teórico creado para este estudio Así el trabajo de investigación queda estructurado en dos bloques el primero dedicado a la parte teórica de la investigación y el segundo a la fundamentación empírica del estudio En cuanto a la parte empírica los datos han mostrado que los pacientes se encuentran moderadamente bien de salud Aun mostrando algunos síntomas de enfermedad el nivel de bienestar es alto Si los pacientes se encuentran bien y no se perciben como enfermos la conducta de adherencia es más difícil de realizar De ahí que el cumplimiento de los pacientes sea muy bajo especialmente en cuanto a la dieta y el ejercicio físico El apoyo social de los enfermos es medio pero llama la atención que el apoyo social que se trasmite a través de conductas no funcionales de no apoyo es también medio alto De esta forma aunque los pacientes se sienten apoyados por los que les rodean también perciben conductas que no les ayudan y que son perjudiciales para la adherencia y en definitiva para la salud de los enfermos Posteriormente se comprobó la relación existente entre el apoyo social y la salud y el bienestar de los enfermos crónicos así como sus interacciones con las conductas de salud De este modo los familiares y amigos aparecen como importantes fuentes a la hora de que los enfermos se sientan mejor o peor de salud En el caso del bienestar los pacientes con un nivel alto de apoyo social no funcional expresan estar menos satisfechos con su vida que los que no reciben este tipo de ayuda no funcional Por otro lado el apoyo de los sanitarios y la satisfacción con el mismo es importante para el bienestar del enfermo pero en cambio no influye en su salud Una de los resultados más significativos de este estudio es que se muestra el apoyo social no funcional como variable importante para que los pacientes incumplan sus tratamientos especialmente en cuanto a la dieta y el ejercicio físico Por otro lado el papel mediador del apoyo social entre las creencias de salud que posee el paciente y el incumplimiento de su tratamiento queda demostrado Así los pacientes que tienen más ayuda y están más satisfechos con el apoyo social que reciben sienten en mayor medida que pueden controlar su enfermedad mediante el tratamiento correspondiente que aquellos con poca ayuda El apoyo social hace que veamos la enfermedad más grave y por lo tanto seamos más cumplidores con el tratamiento Los pacientes que se sienten menos vulnerables no realizan la conducta de adherencia de manera adecuada Así el apoyo social hace que los pacientes piensen que pueden enfermar y así cumplen más con sus tratamientos Los pacientes con más apoyo se sienten más seguros y capaces de hacer algo para mejorar su salud y se adhieren a las prescripciones médicas Al sentirse más autoeficaces cumplir en mayor medida con su tratamiento Por último se presenta una propuesta de intervención multicomponente basada en el apoyo social para disminuir el incumplimiento terapéutico de los enfermos crónicos Se han intentado plasmar una serie de directrices que consideramos básicas para cualquier programa de estas características Nuestra propuesta está basada en los resultados empíricos obtenidos en este estudio y que han aclarado la relación existente entre las distintas variables analizadas El programa está dirigido principalmente a la promoción del bienestar y la calidad de

Cada uno de ellos presenta una propuesta diferente en forma de secuencia con un punto de partida diferente. El libro no está concebido como un recetario sin embargo utilizando el símil gastronómico queremos indicar que está concebido a base de menús al modo de algunas culturas orientales que incorporan diez o más platos a la mesa pequeños platos que van sacando poco a poco dando tiempo a los comensales a saborearlos y assimilarlos antes de pasar a los siguientes. Sin embargo en Democratizar desde la sociedad civil Armando Rendón reivindica la importancia de la participación ciudadana en la conformación de un gobierno justo y satisfactorio para toda la comunidad.
