The Material of World History Tina Mai Chen, David S. Churchill, 2015-03-27 This volume considers the confluence of World History and historical materialism with the following guiding question in mind given developments in the field of historical materialism concerned with the intersection of race gender labour and class why is it that within the field of World History historical materialism has been marginalized precisely as World History orients toward transnational socio cultural phenomenon micro studies or global histories of networks Answering this question requires thinking in an inter related manner about both the development of World History as a discipline and the place of economic determinism in historical materialism This book takes the position that historical materialism as applied to the field of World History needs to be more open to the methodological diversity of the materialist tradition and to refuse narrowly deterministic frameworks that have led to marginalization of materialist cultural analysis in studies of global capitalism At the same time World History needs to be more self critical of the methodological diversity it has welcomed through a largely inclusionary framework that allows the material to be considered separately from cultural social and intellectual dimensions of global processes Books Out Loud, 2007 Joint Acquisitions List of Africana, 1989

The Impact of Higher Education Ranking Systems on Universities Kevin Downing, Petrus Johannes Looock, Sarah Gravett, 2021-04-05 This book written by three generations of rankings academics with considerable experience from three very different regions of the globe lifts the lid on the real impact of higher education ranking systems HERS on universities and their stakeholders It critically analyses the criteria that make up the Big Three global ranking systems and using interviews with senior administrators academics and managers discusses their impact on universities from four very different continents Higher education continues to be dominated by a reputational hierarchy of institutions that sustains and is reinforced by HERS Despite all the opinions and arguments about the legitimacy of the rankings as a construct it seems experts agree that they are here to stay The question therefore seems to be less about whether or not universities should be compared and ranked but the manner in which this is undertaken Delivering a fresh perspective on global rankings this book summarizes the development of HERS and provides a critical evaluation of the effects of HERS on four different major regions South Africa the Arab region South East Asia and Australia It will appeal to any academic student university administrator or governing body interested in or affected by global higher education ranking systems

Counteracting the Neoliberal City Michaela De Marco, 2025-09-22 This book presents a groundbreaking theoretical and methodological framework for analyzing urban phenomena and urban policies and a pioneering approach to urban regeneration projects The text advocates for an Integral and Recognitive Urban Regeneration of public spaces in cities to confront current neoliberal urban policies which have been ineffective in achieving genuine overall wellbeing in contemporary urban environments Integral and Recognitive Urban Regeneration is a macro process composed of several micro contextualized urban projects that account for the complexity of urban spaces This process goes beyond merely enhancing the aesthetics and functionality of architectural spaces rather presenting itself as an educational community oriented cooperative creative socializing eco friendly multidisciplinary and transdisciplinary process that serves as a platform for regenerating compromised ecosystems promoting the cognitive psychological emotional social and political empowerment of resident communities and addressing local and global forms of social and ecological injustice As such this book is an essential resource for students researchers academics and experienced planners alike

Qualitative Research in Clinical Psychology and Psychotherapy in Latin America Alemka Tomicic, Javiera Duarte Soto, 2025-08-11 This book

presents a comprehensive overview of a distinctive tradition of qualitative research in clinical psychology and psychotherapy developed in Latin America Originating mainly from Chile Argentina and Peru this tradition has developed innovative qualitative methods to study indicators of change in psychotherapy mechanisms of change in the psychotherapeutic process and complex phenomena in clinical psychology and psychotherapy These three lines of research are richly illustrated by the chapters brought together in this volume that showcase the work of psychotherapist researchers who developed a research approach that mirrors the qualitative nature of the psychotherapeutic work Qualitative research in psychotherapy has shown significant developments in the context of the Global South Much of this in contrast to the strong quantitative tradition based on Randomized Clinical Trials RCTs developed in North America and Europe is due to the fact that psychotherapy research societies in Latin America were organized by psychotherapists This has created the identity of the psychotherapist researcher a dual identity that entails the notion that psychotherapy research requires a qualitative dimension to make research a part of clinical practice and clinician identity regardless of their theoretical technical orientations This contributed volume aims to provide the reader an overview of the main qualitative methods developed by these psychotherapist researchers Qualitative Research in Clinical Psychology and Psychotherapy in Latin America Creativity for Studying Complex Objects in Context will be of interest to both researchers and practitioners in the fields of clinical psychology and psychotherapy interested in methodologies that can contribute to the organic incorporation of research into clinical practice and to the study of complex objects in context Some chapters in this book were originally written in Spanish and translated into English with the help of artificial intelligence A subsequent human revision was done primarily in terms of content

Spanish Women in the Golden Age Alain Saint-Saens, Magdalen Sánchez, 1996-02-13 The history of women in early modern Spain is a largely untapped field This book opens the field substantially by examining the position of women in religious political literary and economic life Drawing on both historical and literary approaches the contributors challenge the portrait of Spanish women as passive and marginalized showing that despite forces working to exclude them women in Golden Age Spain influenced religious life and politics and made vital contributions to economic and cultural life The contributors seek to incorporate the study of Spanish women into the current work on literary criticism and on the intersection of private and public spheres The authors integrate women into subfields of Spanish history and literature such as Inquisition studies the Spanish monarchy Spain's economic and political decline and Golden Age drama The essays demonstrate the necessity and value of incorporating women into the study of Golden Age Spain Bibliographie presents a sustained dialogue between scholars actors directors writers and those working across these boundaries exploring common themes and issues encountered when writing staging and researching translated works It is organised into four parts each reflecting on a theatrical genre where translation is regularly practised The Role of Translation in Rewriting Naturalist Theatre Adapting Classical Drama at the Turn of the Twenty First Century Translocating Political Activism in Contemporary Theatre Modernist Narratives of Translation in Performance A range of case studies from the National Theatre's Medea to The Gate Theatre's Dances of Death and Emily Mann's The House of Bernarda Alba shed new light on the creative processes inherent in translating for the theatre destabilising the literal performable binary to suggest that adaptation and translation can and do coexist on stage Chronicling the many possible intersections between translation theory and practice Adapting Translation for the Stage offers a unique exploration of the processes of translating adapting and relocating work for the theatre

Schools and Informal Learning in a Knowledge-Based World Javier Calvo de Mora, Kerry J. Kennedy, 2019-09-19 This book has two purposes To open up the debate on the role of informal education in schooling systems and to suggest the kind of school organizational environment that can best facilitate the recognition of informal learning Successive chapters explore what is often seen as a duality between informal and formal learning This duality is particularly so because education systems expend so much time and effort in certifying formal knowledge often expressed in school subjects reflecting academic disciplines Recognizing the contribution informal learning can make to young people's understanding and development does not negate the importance of valued social knowledge That complements it Students come to school with knowledge learnt from their families peers the community and both traditional and social media They should not have to unlearn this in order to enter the world of formal learning Rather students different learning worlds should be integrated so that each informs the other In a knowledge based society all learning needs to be valued Some contributors to this book reflect on how new educational systems could be created in a move away from top down authoritarian and bureaucratic management Such open systems are seen to be more welcoming in acknowledging the importance of informal learning Others provide practical examples of how informal learning is currently recognized Some attention is also paid to the evaluation of informal learning A key objective of the work presented here is to stimulate debate about the role of informal learning in knowledge based societies and to stimulate thinking about the kind of reforms needed to create more open and more democratic school learning environments
