fiction Houses for a New World Barbara Miller Lane, 2022-07-12 The fascinating history of the twentieth century's most successful experiment in mass housing. While the work of Frank Lloyd Wright, Richard Neutra, and their contemporaries frequently influences our ideas about house design, at the midcentury most Americans during this period lived in homes built by little-known builders who also served as developers of the communities. Often dismissed as little boxes made of ticky tacky, the tract houses of America's postwar suburbs represent the twentieth century's most successful experiment in mass housing. Houses for a New World is the first comprehensive history of this uniquely American form of domestic architecture and urbanism. Between 1945 and 1965 more than thirteen million houses, most of them in new ranch and split-level styles, were constructed on large expanses of land outside city centers, providing homes for the country's rapidly expanding population. Focusing on twelve developments in the suburbs of Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, and Los Angeles, Barbara Miller Lane tells the story of the collaborations between builders and buyers, showing how both wanted houses and communities that espoused a modern way of life: informal, democratic, multiethnic, and devoted to improving the lives of their children. The resulting houses differed dramatically from both the European International Style and older forms of American domestic architecture. Based on a decade of original research and accompanied by hundreds of historical images, plans, and maps, this book presents an entirely new interpretation of the American suburb. The result is a fascinating history of houses and developments that continue to shape how tens of millions of Americans live. Featured housing developments in Houses for a New World: Boston area: Governor Francis Farms, Warwick, RI; Wethersfield, Natick, MA; Brookfield, Brockton, MA; Chicago area: Greenvue Estates, Arlington Heights, IL; Elk Grove Village, Rolling Meadows; Weathersfield at Schaumburg, Los Angeles, and Orange County area: Cinderella Homes, Anaheim, CA; Panorama City, Los Angeles; Rossmore, Los Alamitos, CA; Philadelphia area: Lawrence Park, Broomall, PA; Rose Tree Woods, Broomall, PA.

Working Scared (Or Not at All) Carl E. Van Horn, 2014-08-06 At the end of the 20th century with the economy booming and unemployment at historic lows the American economy was a job producing marvel The first decade of the 21st century was entirely different as the worst economy in 70 years the Great Recession crushed the lives of tens of millions of workers and their families forestalled careers scrapped hopes for a college education delayed retirements and foreclosed family homes American workers experienced the best and worst of times and have endured an entire lost decade of high unemployment stagnant or declining incomes and anxiety Working Scared draws upon nearly 25 000 interviews with employed and unemployed Americans conducted from 1998 to 2012 These voices of American workers tell a compelling story about wrenching structural changes and recessions during one of the most volatile periods in U S economic history This book represents one of the most comprehensive social science research portraits of the views of American workers about their jobs the workplace and government's role in the labor market Working Scared will help citizens policy makers educators business union and community leaders better understand what is happening to the United States workforce It also describes the essential national priorities and policies that will assist frustrated angry and scared American workers and the reforms that will help restore the American dream of secure employment and inter generational progress

Grasping for the American Dream Nora E. Taplin-Kaguru, 2021-07-15 African American homebuyers continue to pay more for and get less from homeownership This book explains the motivations for pursuing homeownership amongst working class African Americans despite the structural conditions that make it less economically and socially rewarding for this group Fervent adherence to the American Dream ideology amongst working class African Americans makes them more vulnerable to exploitation in a structurally racist housing market The book draws on qualitative interviews with sixty eight African American aspiring homebuyers looking to buy a home in the Chicago metropolitan area to investigate the housing search process and residential relocation decisions in the context of a racially segregated metropolitan region Working class African Americans remained committed to homeownership in part because of the moral status attached to achieving this goal For African American homebuyers success at the American Dream of homeownership is directly related to the long standing dream of equality For the aspiring homebuyers in this study delayed homeownership was a practical problem for the same reasons but they also experienced this as a personal failing due to the strong cultural expectation in the United States that homeownership is a milestone that middle class adults must achieve Furthermore despite using perfectly reasonable housing search strategies to locate homes in stable or improving racially integrated neighborhoods the structure of racial segregation limits their agency in housing choices Ultimately policy solutions will need to address structural racism broadly and be attuned to the needs of both homeowners and renters

From Submarines to Suburbs Cynthia Lee Henthorn, 2006 Using documentary evidence in the form of numerous advertisements of the time From Submarines to Suburbs is a fascinating analysis of the way corporations made the successful switch from supporting the war effort to building on the peacetime prosperity by re tooling the patriotic fervor of the home front

Expanding the American Dream Barbara M. Kelly, 1993-01-01 Much has been written about the housing policies of the Depression and the Postwar period Much less has been written of the houses built as a result of these policies or the lives of the families who lived in them Using the houses of Levittown Long Island as cultural artifacts this book examines the relationship between the government sponsored mass produced housing built after World War II the families who lived in it and the society that fostered it Beginning with the basic four room slab based Cape Cods and Ranches Levittown homeowners invested time and effort barter and money in the expansion and redesign of their houses The author shows how this gradual process has altered the socioeconomic nature of the community as well bringing Levittown fully into the mainstream of middle class America This book works on several levels For planners it offers a reassessment of the housing policies of the 1940s and 50s suggesting that important lessons remain to be learned from the Levittown experience For historians it offers new insights into the nature of the suburbanization process that followed World War II And for those who wish to understand the subtle workings of their own domestic space within their lives it offers food for speculation
