Meeting,2002 Tongue and Mother Tongue takes on two compelling challenges the language question and the place and role of the mother tongue in African literature This collection is the culmination of the fierce decades old debate on the question of African literature and its criticism The fourteen essays range from a variety of critical and theoretical perspectives covering the theoretical and ideological aspects of the language question the nature of criticism the influence of the oral tradition critical analysis of mother tongue literature and textual analyses International Bibliography of Book Reviews of Scholarly Literature Chiefly in the Fields of Arts and Humanities and the Social Sciences ,1999

Social Sustainability Veronica Dujon,Jesse Dillard,Eileen M. Brennan,2013-08-21 How can we raise the standard of living of the world s poor and maintain high levels of social health and well being in the developed world while simultaneously reducing the environmental damage wrought by human activity The social dimension of sustainability is becoming recognized as a necessary if not sufficient condition for attaining economic and environmental sustainability The requisite dialogue requires inclusion at multi levels This collection of works is an ambitious and multi disciplinary effort to indemnify and articulate the design implementation and implications of inclusion Included are theoretical and empirical pieces that examine the related issues at the local national and international levels Contributors are grounded in Sociology Economics Business Administration Public Administration Public Health Psychology Anthropology Social Work Education and Natural Resource Management Oral Literature in Africa Ruth Finnegan,2012-09 Ruth Finnegan s Oral Literature in Africa was first published in 1970 and since then has been widely praised as one of the most important books in its field Based on years of fieldwork the study traces the history of storytelling across the continent of Africa This revised edition makes Finnegan's ground breaking research available to the next generation of scholars. It includes a new introduction, additional images and an updated bibliography as well as its original chapters on poetry, prose, drum language and drama and an overview of the social linguistic and historical background of oral literature in Africa. This book is the first volume in the World Oral Literature Series, an ongoing collaboration between OBP and World Oral Literature Project. A free online archive of recordings and photographs that Finnegan made during her fieldwork in the late 1960s is hosted by the World Oral Literature Project: <http://www.oralliterature.org/collections/rfinnegan001.html> and can also be accessed from publisher's website.

Gala Shona Cole, 2014-12-07. It is the year 2053. 19-year-old Gala has lost almost everything: her parents, her husband, her belief in the dictatorship of New West. Living in a fractured America, she is faced with a chance to escape and start over in another part of the country. Venturing into unknown territory, Gala meets many new people like the amazing Johnson family and specifically Luke, an older but handsome widower raising a teen daughter alone, and his cousin Nash, a young, interesting man who is willing to give up so much to help her. Will Gala find what she desperately desires: acceptance, security, and true love? Or is it an unattainable hope? Gala is a journey of hope and love and is inspired in part by the biblical book of Ruth.

Theologies of Childhood and the Children of Africa Jan Grobbelaar, Gert Breed, Alfred Brunsdon, Marcia J. Bunge, Sam Ndoga, Hannes (J.J.) Knoetze, Nico Vorster, 2016-12-31. The purpose of this book is to combine perspectives of scholars from Africa on Child Theologies from a variety of theological sub-disciplines to provide some theological and ministerial perspectives on this topic. The book disseminates original research and new developments in this study field, especially as relevant to the African context. In the process, it addresses also the global need to hear voices from Africa in this academic field. It wants to convey the importance of considering Africa's children in theologising. The different chapters represent diverse methodologies, but the central and common focus is to approach the subject from the viewpoint of Africa's children. The individual authors' varied theological sub-disciplinary dispositions contribute to the unique and distinct character of the book. Almost all chapters are theoretical, orientated with less empirical research, although some of the chapters refer to empirical research which the authors have done in the past. Most of the academic literature in the field of Theologies of Childhood is from American or British/European origin. The African context is fairly absent in this discourse, although it is the youngest continent and presents unique and relevant challenges. This book was written by theological scholars from Africa focussing on Africa's children. It addresses not only theoretical challenges in this field but also provides theological perspectives for ministry with children and for important social change. Written from a variety of theological sub-disciplines, the book is aimed at scholars across theological sub-disciplines, especially those theological scholars interested in the intersections between theology, childhood studies and African cultural or social themes. It addresses themes and provides insights that is also relevant for specialist leaders and professionals in this field. No part of the book was plagiarised from another publication or published elsewhere before.

Robert Nash, Stanley Ralph Ross, 1985 Book Review Index, 2000 Every 3rd issue is a quarterly cumulation African Migration, Human Rights and Literature Fareda Banda, 2020-12-24 This innovative book looks at the topic of migration through the prism of law and literature. The author uses a rich mix of novels, short stories, literary realism, human rights and comparative literature to explore the experiences of African migrants and asylum seekers. The book is divided into two parts. Part one is conceptual and focuses on art, activism and the myriad ways in which people have sought to write justice. Using Mazrui's diasporas of slavery and colonialism, it then considers histories of migration across the centuries before honing in on the recent anti-migration policies of western states. Achiume is used to show how these histories of imposition and exploitation create a bond which bestows on Africans a status as co-sovereigns of the First World through citizenship. The many fictional examples of the schemes used to gain entry are set against the formal legal processes. Attention is paid to life post-arrival which for asylum seekers may include periods in detention. The impact of the increased hostility of receiving states is examined in light of their human rights obligations. Consideration is paid to how Africans navigate their post-migration lives which includes reconciling themselves to status fracture, taking on jobs for which they are over-qualified while simultaneously dealing with the resentment borne of status threat on the part of the citizenry. Part two moves from the general to consider the intersections of gender and status, focusing on women, LGBTI individuals and children. Focusing on their human rights and the fictional literature, chapter four looks at women who have been trafficked as well as domestic workers and hotel maids while chapter five is on LGBTI people whose legal and literary stories are only now being told. The final substantive chapter considers the experiences of children who may arrive as unaccompanied minors. Using a mixture of poetry and first person accounts, the chapter examines the post-arrival lives of children, some of whom may be citizens but who are continually made to feel like outsiders. The conclusion follows, starting with two stories about walls by Hadero and Lanchester which are used to illustrate the themes discussed in the book. Few African lawyers write about literature and few books and articles in Western law and literature look at books by or about Africans so a book that engages with both is long overdue. This book provides fascinating reading for academics, students of law, literature, gender and migration studies and indeed the general public.

Dictionary of African Biography Emmanuel Kwaku Akyeampong, Professor Henry Louis Gates, Jr., 2012-02-02 From the Pharaohs to Fanon, Dictionary of African Biography provides a comprehensive overview of the lives of the men and women who shaped Africa's history. Unprecedented in scale, DAB covers the whole continent from Tunisia to South Africa, from Sierra Leone to Somalia. It also encompasses the full scope of history from Queen Hatsheput of Egypt 1490-1468 BC and Hannibal the military commander and strategist of Carthage 243-183 BC to Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana 1909-1972, Miriam Makeba and Nelson Mandela of South Africa 1918.

Decolonising Gender Caroline Rooney, 2007-11-13 Through examination of the functions of language and cross-cultural readings of literature from African queer reading to postcolonial Shakespeare, Rooney explores current ideas of performativity in literature and language and negotiates a path between feminist theory s common pitfalls of essentialism and constructivism
