The Alaskan Homesteader:

The Alaskan Homesteader Mel Adkins,2013-09-16 Mel Adkins describes life in Alaska in the early days of statehood by a family from the plains of Oklahoma They learned to be inventive and self reliant in a land untouched by humans after moving more than twelve miles from the nearest road to a one hundred and sixty acre homestead on the Kenai Peninsula To a young man just entering his teens this was a dream come true but the physical labor that had to be done the first year simply to survive was more than he had ever imagined Cutting firewood with a manual cross cut saw packing water from the spring working on a sawmill and packing supplies in to the homestead on his back left little time for hunting and fishing The family almost starved and froze out that first year but sheer will power stubbornness and rugged determination for a better way of life persevered A family of the greenest chechoko s that ever homesteaded in the land of the midnight sun The Last

Arctic Homestead Norma Cobb,Charles W. Sasser,2003-02-24 A memoir as wild engaging stubborn and authentic as that distant valley where Cobb s family staked out the last plot in America John Balzar author of Yukon Alone In 1973 Norma Cobb her husband Lester and their five children the oldest of whom was nine years old and the youngest twins barely one pulled up stakes in the lower 48 and headed north to Alaska to follow a pioneer dream of claiming land under the Homestead Act The only land available lay north of Fairbanks near the Arctic Circle where grizzlies outnumbered humans twenty to one In addition to fierce winters and predatory animals the Alaskan frontier drew the more unsavory elements of society s fringes

From the beginning the Cobbs found themselves pitted in a life or death feud with unscrupulous neighbors who would rob from new settlers attempt to burn them out shoot them and jump their claim The Cobbs were chechakos tenderfeet in a lost land that consumed even toughened settlers Everything including their civilized past conspired to defeat them They constructed a cabin and first snow collapsed the roof They built too near the creek and spring breakup threatened to flood them out Bears prowled the nearby woods stalking the children and Lester Cobb would leave for months at a time in search of work But through it all they survived on the strength of Norma Cobb a woman whose love for her family knew no bounds and whose courage in the face of mortal danger is an inspiration to us all Arctic Homestead is her story Her story exhibits her strength and sheer willpower to make it work Oregonian Alaskan Wilderness Adventure Duane Arthur
