A History of the Modern Chinese Army Xiaobing Li, 2007-06-01 Since the establishment of the Red Army in 1927 China's military has responded to profound changes in Chinese society particularly its domestic politics shifting economy and evolving threat perceptions Recently tensions between China and Taiwan and other east Asian nations have aroused great interest in the extraordinary transformation and new capabilities of the Chinese army In A History of the Modern Chinese Army Xiaobing Li a former member of the People's Liberation Army PLA provides a comprehensive examination of the PLA from the Cold War to the beginning of the twenty first century that highlights the military's central function in modern Chinese society. In the 1940s the Chinese army was in its infancy and many soldiers were rural conscripts and volunteers who had received little formal schooling. The Chinese military rapidly increased its mobility and weapon strength and the Korean War and Cold War offered intense combat experience that not only allowed soldiers to hone their fighting techniques but also helped China to develop military tactics tailored to the surrounding countries whose armies posed the most immediate threats. Yet even in the 1970s the completion of a middle school education nine years was considered above average and only 4 percent of the 224 top Chinese generals had any college credit hours. However in 1995 the high command began to institute massive reforms to transform the PLA from a labor intensive force into a technology intensive army. Continually seeking more urban conscripts and emphasizing higher education the PLA Reserve Officer Training and Selection program recruited students from across the nation. These reservists would become commissioned officers upon graduation and they majored in atomic physics, computer science and electrical engineering. Grounding the text in previously unreleased official Chinese government and military records as well as the personal testimonies of more than two hundred PLA soldiers, Li charts the development of China's armed forces against the backdrop of Chinese society, cultural traditions, political history and recent technological advancements. A History of the Modern Chinese Army links China's military modernization to the country's growing international and economic power and provides a unique perspective on China's establishment and maintenance of one of the world's most advanced military forces.

On the Trail of the Yellow Tiger Kenneth Swope, 2018-07-01 The Manchu Qing victory over the Chinese Ming Dynasty in the mid seventeenth century was one of the most surprising and traumatic developments in China's long history. In the last year of the Ming the southwest region of China became the base of operations for the notorious leader Zhang Xianzhong. 1605-47 a peasant rebel known as the Yellow Tiger. Zhang's systematic reign of terror allegedly resulted in the deaths of at least one sixth of the population of the entire Sichuan province in just two years. The rich surviving source record however indicates that much of the destruction took place well after Zhang's death in 1647 and can be attributed to independent warlords, marauding bandits, the various Ming and Qing armies vying for control of the empire and natural disasters. On the Trail of the Yellow Tiger is the first Western study to examine in detail the aftermath of the Qing conquest by focusing on the social and demographic effects of the Ming Qing transition. By integrating the modern techniques of trauma and memory studies into the military and social history of the transition, Kenneth M Swope adds a crucial piece to the broader puzzle of dynastic collapse and reconstruction. He also considers the Ming Qing transition in light of contemporary conflicts around the globe, offering a comparative military history that engages with the universal connections between war and society.
