Whose Story? Translating the Verbal and the Visual in Literature for Young Readers Riitta Oittinen, 2009-03-26 This book is based on the discussions carried out in two seminars on the translation of children's literature coordinated by Maria Gonz lez Davies and led by Riitta Oittinen. The main focus finally revolved around four questions: a) Tackling the challenges posed by translating children's literature both picturebooks and books with illustrations and the range of strategies available to solve specific issues b) the special characteristics involved in reading aloud its emotional dimension and the sphere it occupies between private and public reading c) the interpretation and manipulation of child images and d) the role of the translator publishers and mediators as active or passive agents whose decisions may finally mirror the images projected by the authors of the source books. This volume is also professionally oriented and presents examples that underline the interaction between theory and practice. The topics range from Bible translation to translating the classics such as Beatrix Potter's tales and fairytales fantasy worlds for young adults as depicted in Tolkien's The Lord of the Rings or novels such as those by Christine N stlinger as well as stories with a psychological and social function such as the African war tales. Finally it includes didactic applications that help enhance an awareness of the issues involved.

Soviet Historians and Perestroika: The First Phase Donald J. Raleigh, 2016-07-22 The Soviet historical profession is in ferment. For decades it was relegated to the task of obfuscating the past, gilding the status quo and papering over the blank spots in Soviet history: events that defied even the most brazen attempts at falsification. Today it is engaged in an often painful process of self-examination. Initially rather timid, the internal discussion was soon propelled by external events: the scuttling of history textbooks, official disclosures of formerly classified facts and the explosion of candour.

in the depictions of the past in memoirs journalistic writing and fiction This volume gives voice to the lead actors in the first phase of this process the senior historians their journalistic challengers and those charged with responsibility for the institutions of research training and publication in the field of history
